CULBERTSON AND LA FOLLETTE CLASH AT TARIFF INQUIRY

Former Says Senator Attacked Him for Failing to Back Norris' Story of President's Meddling.

BITTER AGAINST FORMER FRIENDS

Arimonious Tilts in Cross-Examination of Witness in Tariff Commission Inquiry.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent
of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—The testimony of William S. Culbertson, former vice chairman of the United States Tariff Commission, before the Senate committee investigating the inside workings of that body, ended today with a hot exchange of remarks between the witness and Senator La Follette.

Culbertson said it had been expected that he would come back from his post as Minister to Romania and espouse the theories advanced by Senator Norris regarding meddling of the President with the work of the commission. Because he failed to do that, Culbertson said, he had been subjected to attack.

"An attack by whom?" asked La Follette. "By you, Senator," replied Culbertson.

"How have I attacked you?" quizzed La Follette. "You produced that 'affectionately yours' letter that I wrote from Bucharest," said Culbertson.

Culbertson Touched on the "Raw."

The was the letter read to the committee last week by La Follette in which Culbertson, writing to his former confidant, Commissioner Costigan, declared that the President had acted "rawly" in naming E. B. Brossard to the Tariff Commission. The letter was produced by La Follette to explain away some of the charges made against him by Senator Norris. Returning to this same task today, Culbertson said that a memorandum he had written—the use of which Norris and Costigan had condemned—had been herded to the public as proof of the theory that the President had abused his appointive power in this dealing with Commissioner Lewis. This memorandum, it will be recalled, told how the President, before appointing Lewis, asked Lewis to give him an undated form of resignation.

Marks in his charges in the Senate said that it looked as if the President were using a club to "put fear into the heart of Lewis."

"It was suggested," said Culbertson, "that I had given a back door handout to a Senator to be used against the President. I should like to point out that the only proof Senator Norris' theory is my memorandum, and that this memorandum recites an entirely different theory of the President's action. This part of the memorandum appears to have been generally overlooked."

More a Matter of Log-Rolling.

"It stated that the President, in explanation of his request for Lewis' resignation, said that he desired to be held with regard to Lewis after the election. It said that the President implied that he desired to be appointed to the appointment for trading purposes if the Democrats should attempt to hold up some of his other appointments.

In other words, the memorandum sets out an entirely different story from that advanced by Senator Norris."

Culbertson recalled that at the beginning of his statement, last Wednesday, he tried in a moderate way to express his disapproval of the use that had been made of his confidential memorandum and paper.

He repeated that his letter to Culbertson was confidential and in no way a "public document." La Follette, after an exchange of the intense bitterness between Culbertson and his former friends on the committee, said that Costigan at a later meeting of the committee would be given a full opportunity to explain his production of the letter.

"I want further to say," continued Culbertson, "that Senator Norris proceeded on the assumption that the President desired the year report to be delayed till after the election of 1924. The contemporary memorandum that I presented to the President on that subject stated that the President had agreed for a delay of only one month, or until the first of August. I should have been allowed to

Mar With Many Wives Who Jumped His Bond In St. Louis Arrested

J. V. WIEDEMEIER CAUGHT BY POLICE IN PHILADELPHIA

Prisoner Believed to Have Married and Swindled More Than 20 Women in U. S. and Europe.

WAS ARRESTED ONCE IN ST. LOUIS

Eloped Here From Chicago With Wife of Merchant — Forfeited $10,000 Bond, $15,000 Bank Roll

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, May 24.—Detectives here today arrested a man whom they identify as John V. Wiedemeier, alias Lord Beaverbrook, who is believed to have married and swindled more than 20 women in the course of his career in Europe and America.

Arrested in Barber Shop.

The capture was made in the barber shop of a hotel, where he was variously known as John B. Wiedemeier, Fred A. Stanley, Robert Whitman, Herman Krueger, Dr. Carl Renne, Dr. Karl Edwards, Mr. Ward, Baron Cornelius Beaverbrook and many other names, was stopping with a girl companion on a "business trip."

He was registered at the hotel as Robert Whitman. A New York detective trailed him to the Ambassador Hotel, New York, with a year-old warrant charging him with having fraudulently married Mrs. Ross Burken of New York, under the name of Robert Whitman and subsequently decamping with diamonds and jewelry.

He was then traced to Philadelphia.

The injunction had been obtained by residents of nearby houses, on the strength of an agreement signed by all property owners in the block, pledging against sales to anyone not of white blood.

The case attracted wide attention because of the prospect that the highest court might decide a question which has led to controversy in many cities. The residence in question is on S street, northwest, only a few blocks from that portion of the street where Secretary Hoover now lives, and to which Woodrow Wilson retired when he left the White House.

The Association for the Advancement of colored people and other organizations took part in the effort to overthrow the injunction.

No Violation of Rights.

"Under the pleadings in the present case," said the Supreme Court, "the only constitutional question involved was that arising under the assertions in the motions to dismiss that the indenture or covenant which is the basis of the bill is 'void' in that it is contrary to and forbidden by the Fifth, Thirteenth and Fourteenth amendments."

This contention is entirely lacking in substance or color of merit.

"The Fifth Amendment is a limitation upon the powers of the general Government, and is now directed against the action of individuals.

"The Thirteenth Amendment denounces slavery and involuntary servitude, that is, a condition of enforced compulsory service of one to the other, does not in other matters protect the individual rights of persons of the Negro race.

His invariable policy with women was to woo and win them, take their money or their jewels and leave them. Mrs. Virginia Martin Beaverbrook, a wealthy Washington widow before she married "Lord Beaverbrook," reported to police that she gave Wiedemeier $40,000 to invest for her. He took the money and vanished. Miss Wexler, an actress of Chicago, reported that Wiedemeier had cheated her foster parents out of $13,000 of their life savings.

Duped Wealthy Widow.

Mrs. Burken of New York, a wealthy widow, said she gave Wiedemeier a fur cloak valued at $5000 and jewels worth $100,000 for safekeeping shortly after their marriage. She never saw Wiedemeier again. It developed that he gave part of Mrs. Burken's jewels and the fur cloak to Mrs. Martin of Washington while he was persuading her to become "Lady Beaverbrook." Mrs. Martin returned the stolen goods to Mrs. Burken.

Wiedemeier's $15,000 still is being held by the Police Board against several attachments granted by the Circuit Court which were obtained by his dupes.

LOCAL ANAESTHETIC CALLED PIPERIDINE A NEW DISCOVERY

Wisconsin University Chemists Declare Drug and Derivatives Better Than Cocaine.

By the Associated Press.

MADISON, Wis., May 24.—Discovery of a local anaesthetic, declared to be superior to cocaine, was made public today by University of Wisconsin chemists. The drug, consisting of piperidine derivatives, will be described at the regional meeting of the American Chemical Society here this week.

The new anaesthetic is described as closely related in structure to cocaine, but has two and one-half times the duration of anesthesia, and one-tenth of the toxicity of cocaine. It was developed in three years of experiments by Prof. S. M. McElvain, with the assistance of Ralph Jones, a research worker.

Unlike novocaine, an anaesthetic which must be injected, hydromerically, the piperidine derivative need not be injected in that manner, but will produce surface anesthesia, the discoverer said.

LIVING COST IN FRANCE NOW 4 1-2 TIMES THAT OF 1914

Bread Still Sells at Pre-war Price But Brandy Has Risen 10

Francs a Bottle.

PARIS, May 24.—The cost of living in France, statistics of the Ministry of Labor say, now is just about four and a half times that of 1914. Bread, the real staff of life, has risen 10 francs a bottle.

The figures of the Labor Department are those for a working man's family. The expenses of persons living on a more extravagant scale are estimated at six and one-half times those of 1914.

The new tax on spirits has caused a rise of 10 francs a bottle in the price of brandy.

STUFFED FRIED HERRING PRIZE BREAKFAST DISH

Award Made by London newspaper for Recipe to Break Monotony of Time-Worn Menu.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, May 24.—A new dish to break the monotony of the usual fish, porridge and bacon and eggs breakfast menu at last has been found. The recipe was won by a London newspaper.

Take a herring and scale and bone it, says the recipe. Boil an egg until hard and chop it while hot into a grating of cheese. Then add a teaspoon of lemon juice. Spread the mixture inside the herring, tie the fish about with a thread and roll it in oatmeal and brush all over with beater egg. Fry in boiling fat in a frying pan basket for five or six minutes and serve hot.

81,154 NAMES ON RECALL LIST

Anti-Miller Workers Determined to Get 120,000 Signatures.

Signatures to the petitions for the recall of Mayor Miller now total $1,154, the Miller Recall Committee announced today, 1932 having been added since Saturday. This is more than 20,000 in excess of the minimum required, or an excess of 33 per cent, but a margin is being accumulated to cover faulty signatures and a goal of 120,000 has been set.

John J. Heil, chairman of the committee, said today that goal has not been changed, and the element of time in completing the petitions so as to have the recall election, if held, coincide with the August primary or November election has not been considered.

Swindled St. Louis Woman.

When the word spread that Wiedemeier was under arrest here four other women came forward to tell how he had married and swindled them. There was Miss Carrie Hymen of St. Louis, Miss Esther Wexler of Chicago, Mrs. Virginia Martin Beaverbrook of Washington, and Miss Ada Frank of Detroit.

Subsequent to these disclosures Mrs. Beaverbrook in Washington conducted an inquiry of her own and located "nine wives at least," and it was her conclusion that he must have married 50."

Police records disclosed that Wiedemeier's real name is Carl Edwards, alias Dr. Karl von Edwards, alias Lord Beaverbrook, a wealthy Washington widow before she married "Lord Beaverbrook," reported to police that she gave Wiedemeier $40,000 to invest for her. He took the money and vanished. Miss Wexler, an actress of Chicago, reported that Wiedemeier had cheated her foster parents out of $13,000 of their life savings.

Mrs. Burken of New York, a wealthy widow, said she gave Wiedemeier a fur cloak valued at $5000 and jewels worth $100,000 for safekeeping shortly after their marriage. She never saw Wiedemeier again. It developed that he gave part of Mrs. Burken's jewels and the fur cloak to Mrs. Martin of Washington while he was persuading her to become "Lady Beaverbrook." Mrs. Martin returned the stolen goods to Mrs. Burken.

MOBILE CHAMPION DRY PROSECUTOR IS OUT OF A JOB

Senate in Executive Session

Votes, 52 to 22, Not to Confirm U. S. District Attorney Boyles.

BOOTLEGER BAUTING HIS FAVORITE SPORT

Encouraged Them to Pay for Protection, but He Always Prosecuted—He Got None of Money.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—The star dry prosecutor of the United States is out of a job. In four years District Attorney Aubrey Boyles of Mobile, Ala., established a record of having obtained a higher percentage of convictions in prohibition cases than any Federal prosecutor in the country. Nevertheless, he lost his job. President Coolidge reappointed him, but after a prolonged investigation of his record and methods, the Senate last week rejected him by the overwhelming vote of 52 to 22.

A lonely, wrathful and vindictive figure was Boyles. He dedicated himself with evangelical zeal to the single purpose of hunting down, harassing and punishing bootleggers. Some of his methods were amazing. Testimony before the Senate Judiciary Committee disclosed an official who apparently proceeded on the theory that nothing too bad could happen to those in the liquor business, and that the end of exterminating them justified the means.

In Trouble, but Persistent.

He left the other business of his office to his assistant. Prosecution of liquor cases, schemes to entrap bootleggers and to expose those who connived with them occupied virtually all of his time. He quarreled with his fellow officials and fell out with his friends. He denounced him. But Boyles never relented from his holy war.

It is not remarkable that he had the vigorous support of the Ku Klux Klan and the Anti-Saloon League, for he was, the very embodiment of that spirit.

Some of those who opposed his reappointment tried to show evidence of corruption, but they never got closer than the hem of Boyles' garment. What they did show was the picture of a zealous, with the fierce, somber and cruel righteousness of a rustic舜.

Perhaps the outstanding feature of the testimony was that which he could purchase immunity by paying large sums to his friend. French had "pledged" for everything he could get, returning to prosecute them with the dubious fury it was fair against a bootlegger.

He was a Government official and, as he said, "I will be very loath to do it." The executive order was asked for merely to meet a situation in California where some Deputy Sheriffs have volunteered to police rural precincts in cooperation with the Federal forces.

I have no intention and had none of extending this plan throughout the country.

"However, I think the order is constitutionally sound."

The Secretary predicted that diversion of alcohol to bootleg channels would be stopped within six months if Congress would vote the authority and the funds carried in pending administration measures, including a $3,000,000 supplemental appropriation, and the Goff dry bill, which would make possible a reorganization of the prohibition machinery.

Senator Edge (Rep.), New Jersey, today sought to attach to the Goff bill three proposals which have been backed by the wetts in their campaign for modification of the Volstead act.

Against those who testified to doing him wrong, he said, "Well, here is what he did. He had a pull with Mr. Boyles and paid him money on the theory that he could get immunity for them, why, that was their mistake."

"Did Boyles encourage them to think French could get immunity for them?" asked Senator Caraway (Dem.) of Arkansas.

"He did; that was my understanding."

"Boyles told you he never took any of the money?"

"He told me most emphatically that he would not. French could come into the office in the morning and say, 'Well, here is what I got last night, and he

FORMER JUDGE HENRY LAMM DIES OF PARALYSIS

Jurist, Who Was 79, Served Ten Years on State Supreme Bench; Once Candidate for Governorship.

WROTE OPINIONS IN IMPORTANT CASES

Gained Reputation as Wit and Philosopher—Funeral Tomorrow at Home in Sedalia, Mo.

HENRY LAMM

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SEDALIA, Mo., May 24.—The funeral of Henry Lamm, former Justice of the Missouri Supreme Court, who was Republican candidate for the Governorship in 1916, will be here tomorrow. Judge Lamm, who was 79 years old, died yesterday after a prolonged illness, in which he suffered five paralytic strokes.

His first stroke was suffered in March, 1924, in St. Louis, where he was holding hearings in the United Railways receivership suit, under an appointment as master in chancery, made by the late Federal Judge D. P. Dyer.

Mrs. Lamm, four sons and a daughter, survive the jurist. The funeral, at 3 p. m. tomorrow, will be held at the First Congregational Church. Interment will be in Sedalia.

The Rev. J. M. Evans, pastor, will officiate. Among the honorary pallbearers will be Judges Waller W. Graves and Robert F. Walker, who were on the Supreme bench at the time Judge Lamm served; John H. Bothwell, John B. Bohling, J. D. Donnehue, Judge Louis Hoffman, Judge George F. Longan, John Montgomery Jr. and Charles E. Teater, the latter formerly acting Governor of the Philippines. Active pallbearers will be relatives.

Members of the Pettis County Bar Association and visiting members of the bar will meet at the courthouse at 2:30 o'clock to attend the funeral in a body.

Former Judge Lamm Won Reputation as Wit and Philosopher.

Former Judge Lamm was a native of Ohio, and was of Pennsylvania German descent. He graduated from the University of Michigan in 1889, and removed to Missouri, locating at Sedalia. He taught school and read law, and was admitted to the bar in 1871. Except for serving four years as Prosecuting Attorney of Pettis County, he held no political office until he was elected in 1904 Judge of the State Supreme Court.

In his 10 years on the Supreme bench, he handed down opinions in a number of important cases, including election fraud investigations, the State anti-trust statutes, and legal aspects of the organic union of church denominations.

After the close of his term on the Supreme bench, Mr. Lamm was nominated in 1916 Republican primary for Governor. The contest between him and Frederick D. Gardner, the Democratic nominee, was close, and Gardner won by less than 2,300 votes, although President Wilson's majority over Hughes in the presidential contest at the same election was more than 28,000.

In the receivership litigation of the United Railways Co., Judge Lamm was named special master, and he spent a considerable part of his time in the last few years in St. Louis in connection with this legal work.

Refreshingly Different. As a Judge on the bench and a campaigner, Judge Lamm was refreshingly different from most jurists and stump speakers. He was not dogmatic enough, perhaps, to be convincing to persons accustomed to the old-fashioned method of denouncing one's political opponents unspareingly. But his witty and tolerant manner made him effective when he gave some real opening for reasonable objection or criticism.

When he entered the United Railways case, he set the hour for hearings at 8 a. m. Lawyers came in late, and reminded the Judge that 10 o'clock was the usual hour for open court in the city. "I know it," the Judge said, "but I want to get through here and get away from the city, where people are getting killed in the streets all the time, and get back where the air is pure and clear." He compromised on a 9:30 opening time.

Judge Lamm's Epigrams.

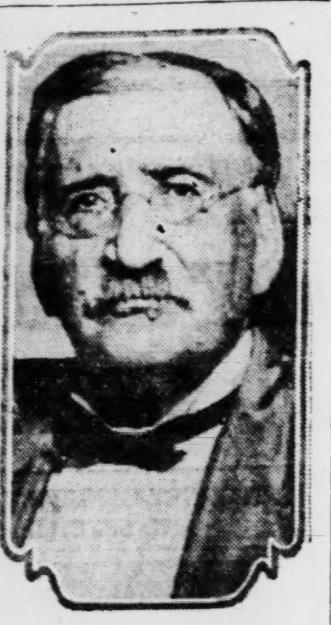

A volume of the "Wit, Wisdom and Philosophy" of Judge Lamm, taken in considerable part from his written opinions on the Supreme Bench, was published several years ago. Some of his epigrams were:

"Courts should not be more ignorant than everyone else. They should not pretend not to know what everyone else knows."

"Drinking makes some men ugly, unaccommodating and obnoxious; some mellow, merry and yielding; some vivacious and witty; some stupid and odd, and since the days of Noah to this day, all men the worse off in the long run."

"To dangle a pardon for a thief before the eyes of his low companions and friends, as an inducement for their votes at a public election, as one would hold out an ear of corn to a worm."

FORMER JURIST WHO IS DEAD AT 79

HEARINGS IN SUIT AGAINST MASTER PLUMBERS OPEN

State to Endeavor to Prove 19 Firms Here Are in Illegal Combination to Control Prices.

ACTION UNDER THE ANTI-TRUST LAWS

Three Witnesses Have Been Called by Assistant Attorney to Testify Before Commissioner.

Hearings to determine whether the Association of Master Plumbers of St. Louis, whose members install most of the plumbing in the city, is a combination to control prices in violation of the State anti-trust statute, were begun yesterday.

"Law is a bundle of rules to make life more tolerable among civilized men."

"That which cannot be done in a straight line, as the bee flies, cannot be done in a circle, as the cow runs."

"Every lawsuit is hatched from an egg or grows from a seed."

"That which is taken in with the soul."

"Enough specks made an apple rotten."

"Every dog is entitled to at least one worry."

"He who wants a mule without fault must walk."

"A mule keeps a kick in reserve for his master."

Judge Lamm's latest political activity was in support of Gen. Leon and Wood's candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination in 1920. In the same year, a few Republicans, notably Collector Koen of St. Louis, urged that he be nominated again, but his name did not go before the primary. It was recalled that four years before his age, which then was 70, was cited as an argument against him.

KOELN, CHAPMAN AND BADER SEEKING RENOMINATION

Edmond Koen, City Collector, Oliver G. Chapman, License Collector, and Herman Bader, Clerk of the Court of Criminal Causes, today filed for Republican nomination to succeed themselves in their respective posts, at the August primary.

Copies of agreements between the Master Plumbers and the Journeyman Plumbers through the local union were introduced, and it was disclosed that although working agreements had been in force almost continuously since 1918, they were not renewed when the last expired in February, 1926, which was subsequent to the Attorney-General's action against the association.

These agreements provided among other things that Master Plumbers would employ none but union plumbers, for none but members of the Master Plumbers' Association.

The Senate debated the confirmation of the 60 members of the Mobile Bar Association opposed his confirmation and their integrity was personally vouched for by Senators Underwood and Heflin.

Bayer testified at great length in his own behalf. He freely admitted knowledge that French was collecting graft from the bootleggers. He put it on somewhat different grounds, however. French, he said, was acting as an informer for him, and it fitted into his plan to let French collect the money.

"In other words, we would be using him and they would be paying him," was his grim explanation.

"What was that?" inquired Senator Cummings in astonishment.

Bayer repeated the statement word for word.

"As I recall now, he began the collection of that money from these fellows in January," he said. "When he would come to me I wouldn't care to hear him talk about the money. I said to him, 'You are their man. They send you to me. I want the information about what they are doing and planning to do. That is all I am interested in.' That continued about six weeks. In that time he told me he had collected about $18,000."

What to Do With $2050.

"One day he brought a check for $2050 into my office. It was made payable to 'cash.' I took it to Mr. Griffin, the clerk of the court, and said, 'What do you do with this?'

"He said, 'How do I know?' I don't want anything to do with it. I said, 'I don't want anything to do with it, either, but I would like to do for the present.'

Crowder's question of Blake were largely the identification of by-laws of the association and the enumeration of committees, such as a associated building interests committee, a supply house committee, an estimates committee, not provided for in the by-laws, and into whose functions Crowder expected to inquire later.

One of the rules of the association brought out was that no member was permitted to bid upon work unless invited, but Blake testified that members frequently ignored the rule unpunished.

Crowder has just begun to inquire into the "kitty" of the association, that fund created by the assessment of 2 per cent of their contracts against members, when the hearing was interrupted by a long distance telephone call for Gentry, informing him of the sudden serious illness of his son, Charles A. Crowder, of the State Auditor's office, who has been on official work at Bolivar, Mo.

It is not likely that, even though Crowder finds it unnecessary to go to his son, that the hearing will proceed much further at this time. It had been the intention of Attorney-General Gentry to conduct the hearings and Crowder has indicated that he would lay the foundation of the inquiry and then await Gentry's completion of the Rutherford Inquiry, which he opened here today.

WOMAN SHOOTS HERSELF

Marshal Maloney of Richmond Heights said Mrs. McKinney shot herself at her home last midnight and ran out on the sidewalk crying for help. Getting none, she returned inside and telephoned her physician. The doctor said he had been treating her for melancholia. The Marshal, who said she was a widow, declared she had refused to explain her act.

"Drinking makes some men surly, ugly, unaccommodating and obnoxious; some mellow, merry and yielding; some vivacious and witty; some stupid and odd, and since the days of Noah to this day, all men the worse off in the long run."

penitentiary. Here is money raining on me. It is coming from every quarter. It is coming out of the air. I don't know what to do with it, and I am afraid, but Mr. Boyles would laugh again and say, 'That's all right. Don't worry. Keep the money and spend it—it's your money!'

Federal Judge Robert E. Erwin, the rather picturesque Southern jurist who presided over the court in which Boyles was prosecutor, added some vivid color to the picture when he took the stand.

"What would you say of Boyles as a truthful man?" he was asked.

"Well, sir, I have ceased to put any confidence in him in that respect," was the calm answer.

"What do you say about his ability as a lawyer?"

"Well, when he gets the facts out he makes a strong presentation to the jury. I think he has very little knowledge of the law, and very little knowledge of the preparation of legal papers on the argument of a legal proposition."

In Wrong With Everybody.

"What were his relations with the other officers of the court?"

The Judge smiled wryly, and drawled, "Well, sir, he has ceased to be cordial in my office. He is less cordial in the clerk's office, still less cordial in the Marshal's office, and his relations with the intelligence officer are not cordial at all. He has fallen out with his assistant, and with the lawyer who defended him when he was being prosecuted by the State."

The latter statement resulted in the disclosure that Boyles had been indicted in the State courts on a charge of attempting to bribe a Deputy Sheriff. The case was dismissed when it was discovered that the Deputy Sheriff had never been legally sworn in. It was also shown that French had been indicted several times, once for murder, but had been acquitted.

In the effort to show that Boyles' passion for prosecuting bootleggers was not always indiscriminate, court attaches testified that on some occasions when the cases of white bootleggers were called for trial, their places were taken by Negroes, who pleaded guilty and paid fines with money given them by the bootleggers.

Boyles Didn't Weaken.

"Then whatever French got out of them, it didn't weaken Boyles."

"Weaken Boyles!" exclaimed the judge. "No, sir. Prosecuting bootleggers is practically all he had done since he has been in office. All the work was done by his assistants."

"On the contrary, he has been very vigorous in his prosecution of them; in fact, that is all he has ever done."

No Boysies Didn't Weaken.

"Then whatever French got out of them, it didn't weaken Boyles."

"Weaken Boyles!" exclaimed the judge. "No, sir. Prosecuting bootleggers is practically all he had done since he has been in office. All the work was done by his assistants."

"Should the Congress of the United States modify the Federal act to enforce the eighteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States so that the same shall not prohibit the manufacture, sale, transportation, importation, or exportation of beverages which are not in fact intoxicating, as determined in accordance with the laws of the respective states?"

The petitions must be signed by 10 per cent of the registered voters of the State and filed with the Secretary of State 60 days before the election.

"The Democrats of Cook County and Illinois have declared in their county and State platforms for modification of the Volstead act," Brennan said.

"Gov. Smith has signed the bill which puts the proposal up to the voters of New York. If Pennsylvania and Illinois do the same thing, the three great states of the nation will have spoken and Congress will have a clear-cut guide to follow."

Illinois has voted before on a similar question. In 1922, on the question of legalizing wine and beer, the vote was: Yes 1,065,212; No 512,111. F. Scott McBride, then State superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, urged drys not to vote on the proposal.

Klan and Anti-Saloon League.

Testimony of many other witnesses indicated that the other officers of the office had suffered because of Boyles' intense preoccupation with liquor cases and that the reputation of the office suffered because of the methods employed by him to get convictions.

"The Klan and Anti-Saloon League oppose the Volstead act," he said.

"Gov. Smith has signed the bill which puts the proposal up to the voters of New York. If Pennsylvania and Illinois do the same thing, the three great states of the nation will have spoken and Congress will have a clear-cut guide to follow."

Defended by Klan Counsel.

In the hearings Boyles was represented by William F. Zumbro, who has appeared in many matters in which the Klan has taken an active interest, and is one of counsel for Federal Judge English in his impeachment case.

But that strange man who set himself so single and wholeheartedly to the task of making life terrible for the bootleggers of Mobile, and brought to the task such terrible purpose and such ruthless methods, will prosecute no more for the present.

The proceeding against the plumbers is similar to that brought several years ago against the members of the St. Louis Lumber Trade Exchange, in which the exchange was ousted and 19 lumber firms were fined a total of $36,000.

Under the order of Judge Mix and the plans of the Attorney-General, the present grand jury is to be used for the inquiry. Its official life ends June 5.

Circuit Attorney Sidener, in a telephone message to the Attorney-General at Jefferson City Saturday night, protested against an inquiry by the present grand jury. His objection was based, not on the shortness of time remaining for the grand jury's term, but on belief that the grand jurors are prejudiced against him.

In telling today of the conversation, the Attorney-General said that he had complained of a secret meeting held by the grand jury. This appears to have referred to a conference held last week at the Racquet Club, in which the members decided that they did not wish to make an inquiry into the Rutherford case under Sidener's direction, as the Circuit Attorney had set out to do.

Objection Made in Court.

Sidener's protest caused Gentry to believe that Sidener would make an objection in court to the use of the grand jury, but this did not occur.

Shorn of its legal phraseology.

Brennan said, "The Root proposition means that it is left for each State to decide for itself its measure of prohibition. It means for instance, that South Carolina cannot impose its will on wet Illinois and wet Illinois cannot impose its will on dry South Carolina."

Brennan believes the proposed measure is well worded that there is no danger of it being attacked on the ground that it nullifies the eighteenth amendment. It follows:

"Should the Congress of the United States modify the Federal act to enforce the eighteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States so that the same shall not prohibit the manufacture,

POLICEMAN HELD FOR INQUEST INTO WOMAN'S DEATH

Herman Gerking of the East St. Louis Force Arrested in Murder of Mrs. Elsie Barnhouse.

HIS REVOLVER FOUND TO HAVE BEEN FIRED

Bullet in Body of Same Caller as Weapon—He Told of Trailing Her in Automobile.

Herman Gerking, East St. Louis traffic policeman, is being held in the Madison County jail at Edwardsville pending an inquest tomorrow in the case of Mrs. Elsie Barnhouse, East St. Louis dance hall cashier, who was found shot to death early Saturday near Horsehoe Lake, east of Granite City.

Gerking's wife and Mrs. Barnhouse had been friends for years. Theron Barnhouse, husband of the slain woman, operates Yocca Hall, a notorious East St. Louis resort, where Mrs. Barnhouse was cashier and where Gerking was watchman when not on police duty. The two families lived in the same block on North Sixth street, East St. Louis.

Since he shot and killed William Ragan, a gangster, in a brawl at the dance hall last Jan. 24, Gerking has been acting strangely and seemed to fear violence from Ragan's friends, according to Chief of Police Barry of East St. Louis. Barry placed Gerking on the inactive list on May 16 because of an injured ankle.

Found Drunk at His Home.

Gerking was arrested at 1 a.m. yesterday by police who found him in a drunken stupor on a bed at his home. Earlier in the night he had refused to obey Chief Barry's order to surrender at headquarters and had threatened to "fight it out" if his arrest was attempted. He was taken to headquarters handcuffed and later was transferred to Edwarssville.

Gerking's revolver was turned over to the police by his wife. It had been fired recently and not cleaned. A bullet removed from Mrs. Barnhouse's body was said to be of the same caliber.

A visit by Gerking on Saturday afternoon to the scene of the murder, before the victim had been identified as Mrs. Barnhouse, led to his arrest. As Coroner Bauer and Deputy Coroner Tate drove to the scene they passed Gerking driving back to East St. Louis in his touring car. A farmer who conversed with Gerking noticed he was carrying a revolver. Gerking told the farmer he was looking for work.

Gerking gave an incoherent explanation of that trip to reporters. "I read the papers Saturday and the description of the murdered woman fitted Mrs. Barnhouse," he said.

Says He "Settled It."

"She was my friend and I figured Ragan's friends had double-crossed her, so I went out to the lake to settle this thing myself. I finished them and settled it."

"Barnhouse and I are good friends and belong to the same lodge," Gerking added. "I'd be the last man in the world to injure my friend's wife."

Mrs. Barnhouse was a drug addict. Mrs. Gerking, who was caring for her, last saw her alive Friday evening when Mrs. Barnhouse entered an automobile occupied by two men. Gerking has said he pursued this car out of town and was out-distanced.

The body of Mrs. Barnhouse was taken to her home town, Flora, Ill., where the funeral will be tomorrow.

KILLS PARALYTIC DAUGHTER AFTER 22 YEARS, SHOOTS SELF

Murder Because He Couldn't Make Living and Continue to Care for Her.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 24.—Frederick Raabe last night shot and killed his hopelessly paralyzed daughter, 22 years old, then killed himself. Raabe, 62, had lived alone with the invalid since the death of her mother a year ago. To take care of her he had been forced to give up his job as a machinist at a plant, and how they were to live was a problem.

He wrote: "I cannot stand this mental agony any longer. My nerves are all wrecked. Good-by to all. There is $38 in a tin box. My will and bank account will take care of all expenses. Oh, God, forgive me."

Two hours later Henry Epling and his wife, who was Mrs. Raabe's sister, found the bodies.

Man Shoots Self in Bed.

John Newth, 45 years old, a cripple, residing alone at 617 Hawk avenue, was found dead in bed yesterday morning, by a friend, one of those who had been looking after some of his wants, since he had been without work or money. He had a bullet wound in the right side of the chest and clutched a revolver in his hand. Neighbors had not seen him since Wednesday.

COAL DEADLOCK IN BRITAIN DRAGS INTO FIFTH WEEK

No Sign of Settlement—Miners Say Calling Off the General Strike Betrayed Them.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, May 24.—The fifth week of the coal strike finds the mine owners and the miners apparently as far from a settlement as when the lockout and strike began.

The miners, according to their general secretary, A. J. Cook, are bitterly resentful of the action of the Trades Union Congress in ending the general strike called in sympathy with the miners. In a speech in the Rhondda Valley in Wales yesterday, Cook asserted that the cessation of the general strike was a shameful betrayal of the miners.

Emmeline Pankhurst, the militant suffragette in authority for the statement that had a secret ballot been taken by the wives of the coal miners, a strike would never have been declared.

In the Merthyr Valley in Wales women and children are bearing the brunt of the fight of the men.

The women, without grumbling, are carrying out the task of feeding their large families, even though wages or strike pay are not forthcoming. As against the usual $10.50 weekly income when the men are employed, the housewife now has $2.75 weekly allowance from the county guardians. Daily the miners in South Wales are besieging union headquarters for relief, but the strike committees assert that their funds are nearly exhausted.

The strike has upset the holiday plans of the King, Queen and other royalty. For the first time since their accession, the King and Queen spent Whit Monday in Buckingham Palace. They had planned to go to Aldershot and also to Sandringham, the home of the late Dowager Queen, but the King canceled the trip because it involved special trains, necessitating the use of coal, which the railways are endeavoring to conserve. The Prince of Wales, Duke of York and Princess Mary all are spending the holiday in London, which is rather unusual.

Culbertson Cross-Examined.

The tilt between the witness and La Follette was the climax of a long and vigorous cross-examination by La Follette and Chairman Robinson.

"You said," observed La Follette, "that one reason why you left the Commission was that the proceedings had become petty. Were there not a number of important investigations under way at that time?" "Yes," replied the witness. "There were the vegetable oil and other cases."

Culbertson explained that the proceedings had become petty in the sense that the commissioners were wasting time in endless talk about trivialities of procedure, such as the dottling of an "I" or the crossing of a "T" in a report.

"You said that during the crisis in the sugar case" went on La Follette, "you were not offered a position in the diplomatic service. Were there not confidences relative to your promotion during that period?"

"Never with the President," said Culbertson, "but the master was discussed at different times with his secretary, Mr. Slemp. He asked me at one time to express my desire. I mentioned China as one place that I was chiefly interested in."

"Was the Governor Generalship of the Philippines mentioned?" "It was in one conversation," Culbertson replied.

"You said in your opening statement that you were glad to accept the ministership to Rumania. Did you accept that place when it was first offered?" "No," replied the witness. "I did not. I had been interested in another post, but it turned out that this was not available."

"Why, then, did you finally accept Rumania?" Culbertson replied that, for one reason, he was urged to do so by Secretary of State Kellogg, who said that his economic training fitted him particularly well to deal with the problems of the Bucharest post at that time.

Wants Tariff Board to Fix Rates.

Culbertson began his statement today by suggesting several changes in the law relating to the Tariff Commission. If these or similar changes were not made, so as to bring it within the purpose designed for it by Congress, he declared the commission ought to be abolished. The flexible tariff law, he said, was now being "nullified in practice." He thought that the commission might yet be made to function judicially.

If the elastic tariff section should be repealed Culbertson said that the continuance of the Tariff Commission as a mere fact-finding body would be useless. Facts for the use of Congress, he said, could be gathered just as well, and at less expense, by the Department of Agriculture and Commerce, or by a special commission which Congress might set up whenever it completed a general revision of the tariff.

Culbertson told of the able representation of various economic groups by their lobbies in Washington. This seemed to him to be not an unmixed evil. He resented, however, the "back door methods" that were too frequently employed, and he agreed with Chairman Robinson that there was danger that the interests of the "forgotten man"—the ultimate consumer—would be overlooked.

"That, I feel," interposed Robinson, "is increasingly true with respect to the Interstate Commerce Commission."

The remark was inspired by the witness' earlier conference to that commission as one that was conducted along judicial lines.

"I am no optimist," said Culbertson, "and I have the firm faith that ultimately we shall take the details of tariff-making out of Congress. You will recall that the last revision required 18 months."

"Yes," retorted Robinson, "and it took the Tariff Commission three or four years to make a report on a single item—sugar."

It seemed to Robinson that it would be dangerous to vest a taxing power, "the power to destroy," in an independent commission.

After Culbertson's statement, the committee adjourned subject to the committee of the chairman.

CENSUS ESTIMATES SHOW GROWTH OF 229 U. S. CITIES

New York 5,924,000, Chicago Passes 3,000,000 Mark, St. Louis Gain Since 1920 Placed at 58,000.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Estimates of the population of 229 cities having 30,000 or more inhabitants were announced today by the Department of Commerce.

The estimates, prepared by the Census Bureau and carrying the figures up to July 1, this year, are based in most cases on the assumption that the annual increase since 1920 has been the same as the average between 1910 and 1920. For cities in states which took a State census in 1925, the estimates are based on the 1920 to 1925 average population, nor for 10 cities where exceptional conditions of growth, which would cause estimates to be far from correct, are believed to prevail. Allowance is made for annexations and detachments of territory.

Don't Ask Him Why Tell Him Why

If your dealer doesn't handle Carpenter's Hydrox Ice Cream, don't ask him why, tell him why.

He probably pays less for what he does handle and tries to get the same price as he would get for Hydrox.

And you can't blame him much so long as you don't complain.

It is true he ought to buy what he knows is purest and best for you. But, after all, dealers are only human.

And if he thinks that what is best for his pocketbook doesn't happen to be best for your stomach, why should he tell you if you don't know the difference?

Carpenter's Hydrox Brand Ice Cream is made with pure cream.

Pure cream costs money. If you don't demand it, of course you don't get it—unless you go to a Hydrox Agency.

MEN HELD IN SALOON KILLING ARE FREED

County Coroner Decides Shooting of Edward Byrne Was Accidental.

An inquest verdict of accident was returned today in the death of Edward Byrne, 25 years old, of 220 Pearl avenue, who was shot through the heart and killed with a sawed-off shotgun early yesterday in the saloon of Alfred D. McCurley and Jack Gerlach at 155 Lemay Ferry road, St. Louis County.

Testimony was that the weapon discharged accidentally when James Cox, 18, of 912A South Twelfth street, a one-armed youth, dropped it after lifting it from the bar with his one hand. Cox and McCurley, who own the shotgun, were arrested but released after the inquest.

Four witnesses confirm this version given by McCurley and Cox.

Byrne was leaning on the bar as McCurley prepared to close the place and Cox, who planned to spend the night with McCurley, was behind the bar with the saloon-keeper. McCurley drew the shotgun from a drawer and laid it on the bar while he gathered his personal belongings from the drawer. He started upstairs, telling Cox to bring the shotgun. Cox picked up the weapon and was putting it under his arm when it slipped from his grasp and was discharged as it struck the bar. The full charge entered Byrne's breast.

McCurley said he kept the shotgun for protection and each night took it to his living quarters on retiring.

INQUEST OVER MANSHOT BY POLICEMAN

Witnesses Tell of J. B. Gerdes Firing at Motorist When Walter Sisler Was Hit.

An inquest was started today in the case of Walter Sisler, 37 years old, of 4707 Nebraska avenue, who was mortally wounded last Wednesday afternoon when struck by a stray bullet fired by John B. Gerdes, 25-year-old traffic policeman, at a motorist alleged to have driven past a stop signal at Grand and Page boulevards.

The motorist, Andrew Wright, 50, of 3339 Utah street, testified that when he drove south in Grand the signal read "Go." He said he is somewhat deaf and did not hear Gerdes call on him to stop. He stopped about a block south when he heard a series of shots, he testified. One of the bullets struck the rear of the car. Wright said Gerdes remarked, "I ought to have killed you" and arrested him on a charge of careless driving.

Police testified concerning the wounding of Sisler, who was struck by a bullet as he waited for a street car at Grand and Windsor place, three blocks south of Page. A physician testified he removed the bullet from Sisler's right side. Gerdes, discharged from the police force, was at the inquest with a lawyer, but did not testify. The inquest was continued until tomorrow morning to hear a witness, Roy J. Ferguson, a real estate dealer at 309 Chestnut street. Ferguson has told reporters he was driving behind Wright, witnessed the shooting and heard Gerdes abuse Wright.

Funeral services for Sisler will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow from an undertaking establishment at 1841 Cass avenue, to St. Peter and Paul's Cemetery. He is survived by his widow, mother, brother and two sisters.

WOMAN FOUND UNCONSCIOUS NEAR RIVER DIES OF POISON

Miss Marie Boos, suffering from Nervous Disorder, had disappeared from her home.

Boys playing on the bank of the River des Peres, east of Broadway, yesterday afternoon found Miss Marie Boos, 24 years old, of 2115 Rosedale avenue, unconscious. She was taken to City Hospital, where she died at 2:35 p.m. of poisoning, without having regained consciousness.

Identification was made by her father, Louis Boos, who was reached through a telephone number found in the young woman's pocket. She had disappeared Saturday and police had been asked to look for her. She had suffered from a nervous disorder for two months. Her mother is dead and she had kept house for her father, sister and two brothers.

JEANE THOURET BEATIFIED

High Church Honors in Rome for Founder of Sisters of Charity.

By the Associated Press.
ROME, May 24.—The beatification of the venerable Jeanne Antida Thouret of Sancy, France, founder of the Sisters of Charity, who died in 1926, was celebrated with a traditionally beautiful ceremony at St. Peter's. High French prelates and 400 Sisters of Charity and a number of descendants of the venerable Jeanne were present.

Pope Pius descended to St. Peter's yesterday afternoon and, in the presence of 22 Cardinals, venerated relics of Jeanne Antida Thouret.

ADVERTISEMENTDanger Signals of High Blood Pressure

"Dizzy spells, hot flashes, pains in the head, shortness of breath, sleeplessness, and nervousness usually indicate high blood pressure," warns physician who found treatment to reduce it.

These are symptoms which show an accumulation of poisonous waste matter in the system or that one or more of your organs has weakened and caused the heart to be overtaxed. Check it at once, for it is known that high pressure brings on headache, asthma, apoplexy, Bright's disease, and often sudden death.

Norma, a harmless, purely vegetable medicine, physician's prescription reduces blood pressure so surely it is regarded as a great medical discovery. Bottle brings prompt relief. Ask for Norma at your drug store. For sale by Wolf-Wilson Drug Store and Walgreen Drug Co., and all other good drug stores.

FACE DISFIGURED BY PIMPLES
Large, Hard and Red. Itched and Burned. Healed by Cuticura.

"I was troubled with pimples that broke out on my forehead. They were large, hard and red, and soon scattered over my face disfiguring it. The pimples itched and burned and burned causing me a scratch, which made them worse. The trouble lasted about two months.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. After using it I purchased more and now I am completely healed." (Signed) Miss Anna Moher, R. F. D. Box 25, Toledo, Ohio, Sept. 8, 1925.

DERAILED TRAIN KNOCKS OVER A SIGNAL TOWER

Fireman of New York-Boston Train Killed—Vaudeville Stars in Coaches That Left Track. By the Associated Press.

MANSFIELD, Mass., May 24.—In a wreck that caused the death of a fireman, and knocked over a signal tower, some of the passengers of the Owl, a fast train from Boston for New York, were not even awakened from sleep this morning.

The wreck was on the New York, New Haven & Hartford. The Owl, running 25 miles an hour, hit the tail end of a freight at a crossing. The passenger locomotive made kindling of three freight cars, and then jumped the rails.

The passenger locomotive finally rolled over, and its fireman, Ernest Ridings of Newton, Conn., died a few moments later from his injuries.

Four sleeping cars followed the locomotive off the rails but none of the passengers was reported seriously injured, although a dozen were listed for slight hurts.

The passengers in the derailed coaches included a group of vaudeville stars, among them were Blossom Seeley, the Four Camerons, Walter Kane, Paul Burns, Betty Washington and the Ray Sisters.

RESIDENT OF GRANITE CITY FOUND DEAD ON STATE ROAD

H. W. Schelm Apparently Hit by Auto When Walking Between Mitchell and Nameoki.

The body of H. W. Schelm, 52 years old, a blacksmith, of 2137 G street, Granite City, was found early yesterday on the highway midway between Mitchell and Nameoki. Apparently he had been struck by an automobile. He had suffered numerous major bone fractures. His money and personal possessions had not been molested. From the fact that his shoes were found on the road about 150 feet from his body authorities believe he may have been struck after sitting down on the highway to take them off.

MO. PAC. EARNINGS UP 100 PCT. SINCE 1916

Eight Years After Receivership It Is Second Largest Line West of Mississippi.

By Lease Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, May 24.—Within eight years after the properties passed into receivership, the reorganized Missouri Pacific Railroad Co. has not only recovered a strong financial position, but has become the second largest railway system west of the Mississippi, according to an analysis just completed by the Hodenpyl Hardy Securities Corporation.

The record of the road's operations during this period is one of yearly increases in earnings. Last year's total earnings are more than double those of 1916. The statement for the first quarter of 1926 gives promise of still larger gains this year. Net earning for the quarter exceed the same period in 1925 by 26.3 per cent. The preferred stock earned $2.50 a share for the first three months against $1.63 last year, and the common $1.07 a share against 33 cents for the first quarter of 1925. The report attributes the improvement to the development of the territory served. Gross earnings of the railroad per mile of line increased from $8914 in 1915 to $17,533 for 1925, a gain of 100 per cent. At the same time the gain in net operating income was about 52 per cent.

With its own property and that of six other companies which it controls, the Missouri Pacific system include 15,417 miles of railroad, extending from St. Louis to New Orleans and west to San Francisco via Kansas City and Denver.

In addition to property used for transportation purposes, the Missouri Pacific's investments in other railroad properties yielded in 1925 an income of $2,639,458, or $5.13 per share of preferred stock.

The balance sheet of the company shows total assets of $538,202,188, with current assets of $33,476,181 exceeding current liabilities by more than $14,000,000.

Speedily Gain Weight

The greatest strength giver and producer of good healthy flesh in the world is Cod Liver Oil—it's full of vitamins.

But it's nasty stuff—ill-smelling and hard to take, and usually upsets the stomach.

Thank goodness! we don't have to even smell it any more, for now Wolff-Wilson Drug Stores, Enderle Drug Co. and all druggists are selling McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, sugar coated, and as easy to take as candy, so that you can get the real Cod Liver Oil in condensed form and get just the same results as with the horrible smelling liquid.

Men and women, weak, thin and nervous, are urged to put on weight and get back their health and strength with these wonderful tablets.

One woman gained 15 pounds in five weeks, and that's going fast enough for anyone.

Only 60 cents for 60 tablets, and if they don't put five pounds of flesh on any thin person in 30 days, your druggist is authorized to hand you back the money you paid for it.

Mishap in Jumping Contest
Gives Unexpected Thrill, Rider Escapes Unhurt.

The fifth annual Military and Civilian Horse Show wound up to a brilliant close yesterday afternoon before a crowd of about 3000 persons on the Jefferson Barracks parade grounds to see a group of St. Louis horses and riders vie for honors. Boxes and grandstand were filled and a considerable crowd swarmed around the paddock rails under a burning sun.

Two championship events, run for $400 in cash prizes, attracted keen interest. "Hunter's Chief" owned by Paul Bakewell Jr., won the $100 first award in the class for five-gaited saddle horses, and "Bootlegger," owned by August A. Busch Jr., won the $100 award in the championship for hunters and jumpers over two four-foot walls and two four-foot brush jumps.

This last event brought the crowd to its feet when Edward L. Bakewell's "Shylock" smashed through a wall and rolled in the dust with his rider, Miss Marceline Reyburn.

Rides Winning Mount.
Miss Reyburn rose unhurt and led her mount, slightly lame, to the paddock. After a brief rest, Miss Reyburn returned to the field to ride "Bootlegger" to first place and Mrs. J. A. Corbett's "Attaboy" to second place and the $50 prize. The third prize, $30, went to Edward Bakewell's "Old Folks" and fourth prize, $20, to Stewart McDonald's "Big Mack."

URGES INITIATIVE
ON METROPOLITAN
AREA PROPOSALCounty Freeholder W.
Board to Drop Annexation Scheme and Submit New Proposition.JOSEPH C. M'ATEE
PLAN UP TONIGHT

Would Permit City and Urban Sections to Have Autonomy — Not Likely to Be Adopted.

A formal resolution, presented by Joseph C. McAtee, a member of the Board of Freeholders, was introduced in the Missouri House of Representatives on May 22, 1926, calling for the abandonment of its efforts to submit an annexation plan to voters of St. Louis and St. Charles County, in favor of an initiative proposition to amend the Missouri Constitution and create a metropolitan area government. The resolution was introduced by Joseph C. McAtee, a member of the Board of Freeholders. Adoption of this resolution would come as a surprise to many people.

The idea of a metropolitan area government, with unified control of things as traffic, sewerage and the like, with arrangement of governments under it, the city, the county and the incorporated areas would retain their autonomy except as to the certain matters of general interest.

McAtee, who is a lawyer and a member of the Board of Freeholders, said that such a scheme might solve the problem of territorial disputes here. The City Freeholders, standing out for their plan of annexation of the whole county, had been deadlocked about 19 days left of its life.

Face Unbreakable Deadline
It is conclusively demonstrated that the freeholders will not be able to submit a proposition for the annexation of parts of the city. McAtee's resolution says, "they will not submit a proposition for the return of the city to the county, and the City Freeholders will not submit a proposition for the city to remain in the county."

Any proposal under either of these three provisions would be destructive in effect, the resolution asserts, continuing: "All over the world that have worked out a plan for physical development of cities and adjoining towns have found it impossible to enter any form of annexation without being forced to adopt what is known as the metropolitan plan."

Cities Procedure in Other Countries
This has been demonstrated by resolution points out at Chicago, which is surrounded by 71 separate cities in Cook County with a population of 200,000; at Detroit, where there are five other cities adjacent to the city, and in Wayne County refusing to be annexed; at Boston, where they operate under a metropolitan plan; and at London, where the population of 9,000,000 is in a metropolitan area government.

The resolution asks that the Board of Freeholders be suspended and the board authorized to draft and submission of a constitutional amendment by the state legislature, providing for the creation of a metropolitan area under a metropolitan commission, by virtue of which the physical development of St. Louis and surrounding cities may be governed without affecting the sovereignty or boundaries of the city or the county comprising it.

When McAtee suggested the scheme informally at last Monday's meeting of the board, Chairman H. S. Caulfield, a City Freeholder, ruled it was beyond the board's powers.

Our Will Petitions Tonight
Joseph Forshaw, president of the St. Louis County Anti-Saloon League, announced today that the members of the league will submit a proposed constitutional amendment making the county automatically a part of the state at the election throughout the state next November, will be in circulation tomorrow. The league's proposal is virtually the same as that which the City Freeholders have drafted. Eighty percent of the voters in at least one of the congressional districts sign such a petition to have an election called.To Photograph Liquor Violators

PART TWO.

URGES INITIATIVE
ON METROPOLITAN
AREA PROPOSALCounty Freeholder Will Ask
Board to Drop Annexation
Scheme and Support
New Proposition.JOSEPH C. M'ATEE'S
PLAN UP TONIGHTWould Permit City and Suburban Sections to Retain Autonomy — Not Likely to Be Adopted.

A formal resolution, proposing that the Board of Freeholders abandon its efforts to submit some sort of annexation plan to the voters of St. Louis and St. Louis County, in favor of a state-wide initiative proposition to amend the Missouri Constitution and create a metropolitan area government, will be submitted to the board tonight by Joseph C. McAtee, a county member. Adoption of this suggestion would come as a surprise.

The idea of a metropolitan area is for unified control of such things as traffic, water supply, sewerage and the like, without rearrangement of governmental units. Under this the city, the county and the incorporated suburbs would retain their autonomy, except to the certain matters of general interest.

McAtee, who is a lawyer, and some other county freeholders, believe such a scheme might solve the problem of territorial relations here. The City Freeholders are standing out for their plan for adoption of the whole county and the board is deadlocked. It has about 10 days left of its year of office.

Unbreakable Deadlock. It is conclusively demonstrated that the freeholders will not and cannot submit a proposition authorizing annexation of parts of the county to the city." McAtee's resolution says: "they will not submit a proposition for the return of the city to the county, and the County Freeholders will not submit a proposition for the city taking in the whole county."

Any proposition under either of these three provisions would be ineffective in effect, the resolution asserts, continuing: "All cities of the world that have worked out a plan for physical development of such cities and adjoining territory have found it impossible to do it under any form of annexation, but have been forced to adopt what is known as the metropolitan plan."

Cities Procedure in Other Cities. This has been demonstrated, the resolution points out, at Chicago, which is surrounded by 71 separate cities in Cook County with a population of 300,000; at Detroit, where there are five other cities adjacent in Wayne County refusing to be annexed; at Boston, where 38 cities operate under a metropolitan area plan; and at London, where a population of 9,000,000 has a metropolitan area government.

The resolution asks that rules of the Board of Freeholders be suspended and the board authorize draft and submission of a constitutional amendment by the initiative, providing for the creation of a metropolitan area under a metropolitan commission, by virtue of which the physical development of St. Louis and surrounding territory may be governed without affecting the sovereignty or boundaries of the city or the county comprising same."

When McAtee suggested this scheme informally at last Monday's meeting of the board, Chairman Henry S. Caulfield, a City Freeholder, ruled it was beyond the board's powers.

Out With Petitions Tomorrow. Joseph Forshaw, president of the St. Louis County Annexation League, announced today that petitions to submit a proposed constitutional amendment, making the county automatically a part of the city, at the election throughout the State next November, will be placed in circulation tomorrow. The league's proposal is virtually the same as that which the City Freeholders have drafted. Eight percent of the voters in at least 11 of the Congressional districts must sign such a petition to have an election called.

POLAND, CALM AFTER COUP, WILL QUIETLY ELECT NEW PRESIDENT NEXT MONDAY

No Second Armed Conflict Likely—Pilsudski, Victorious Leader of Revolt, Has Political Fight on His Hands.

By ARNO DOSCH FLEUROT,
Berlin Correspondent of the Post-
Dispatch and New York World.

(Copyright, 1926.)

WARSAW, May 24.—The Polish National Assembly will be held here next Monday and everything points to the calm election of a new President.

Any further armed action by either side seems entirely out of the question. Delegates who are members of the Senate and Diet are rushing around Poland trying to line up a political combination either for or against Marshal Pilsudski, head of the revolt which recently overthrew the Government. Neither they nor those with whom they are dealing, appear under any of the usual headings due to fear of personal consequences which often affects citizens of a country following a coup d'état.

The public attitude toward the revolt is peculiar. It is a military coup, not affecting the mass of the population except those who happened to get within the line of bullets during the two and a half days of fighting in Warsaw itself.

Not a shot was fired in any other part of Poland during the revolt, and the coup in the capital was not attended by a single case of looting, either by soldiers or civilians. Consequently the coup which caused President Wojciechowski to send his resignation to the Diet, leaving Marshal Pilsudski master of Warsaw, is in the mind of the average Pole like an absorbing melodrama.

Narrow Escape From Civil War.

But the thrill of it has made everyone conscious of the hairbreadth escape from civil war and catastrophe for Poland if such conflict should get started even now.

There are factors in the situation in Poland which should be well understood elsewhere, particularly on account of the doubtful future of the country's future raised by the coup d'état. One of the peculiarities of the situation is that I am able to sit here in Warsaw writing as conscientiously giving as complete and accurate account as I can, and yet this cable must pass an avowed censor whose position is a result of the coup. Not a word, I feel sure, will be changed. This is due to tolerance characteristic of the Pole, and it is the same characteristic which created the free atmosphere in which the National Assembly to select a President will be held.

Pilsudski's Position.

Marshal Pilsudski, in spite of the power his coup gave him, has exactly the same political fight on his hands as he had never made it.

Posen is the hostile camp politically. There the opposition is centered and the trains between Warsaw and Posen carry dozens of emissaries between the political parties each way every day trying to make a compromise.

range, where it will be cut off from the world by the Franco-Spanish forces. Abandoned by all his allies, Krim sooner or later, it is thought, will be obliged to yield and submit.

The French say that the results of the campaign up to the present time have been greater than it was believed possible to attain in such a short time after the offensive was launched, less than two weeks ago.

They assert that the occupation of Targist without a struggle was due to the subversion of a large portion of Krim's own tribe. Krim is represented as having fled to the northwest with his family and such belongings as he could transport. One of the members of the French Medical Mission in the Riff returned today, reportedly bearing a letter from Abd-el-Krim, the Riffian chief, to Jules Steeg, the French resident-general of Morocco.

METZ, France, May 24.—"I ask you to drink, to the health of France's regular and colonial soldiers, obliged to fight on in Syria and Morocco to defend our country against aggression," said President Doumergue in a speech last night at a banquet of French and allied veterans.

"They are fighting to establish a durable, humane and just peace," he added. "Let us send them greetings and the best wishes of the homeland."

The President's speech was vigorously applauded. His reception in Lorraine was marked by scenes of much enthusiasm. The city last night was illuminated and the tricolor of France was everywhere displayed.

PRESS OF BRITAIN
SAYS "BIG PARADE"
IS AMERICAN BRAG

"How U. S. Won the War in Pictures" Called "Colossal Impudence."

Copyright, 1926, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Co., New York World and Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, May 24.—The press offensive against the movie, "The Big Parade," as a bit of American bragging about winning the war, continues but does not keep the show from drawing big crowds. Indeed, the publicity helps business.

The Daily Mail and the Express use the same headlines, "How America Won the War," the Express says: "They have our money and now they want our glory. This opinion from a popular novelist (George Bernard Shaw's defense of the picture as splendid pacifistic work) is not likely to be a general verdict: Not only are they after our glory, it might be added, but they want us to pay them for stealing it." The paper calls on United States Ambassador Houghton to have the picture withdrawn.

The Star also uses the headline "How America Won the War," but adds, underneath in smaller type, "in the pictures." A sub-heading reports, "Cossack impudence of new film."

"It is doubtful if any other nation than America would have had the impudence or the bad taste to produce 'The Big Parade,'" remarks the Star.

In the papers pay tribute to the technical excellence of the film, which the Standard says "is the biggest parade yet of the fact that the Americans have certainly won the film war."

ONE KILLED, 51 INJURED, IN ELECTION RIOTS IN EGYPT

Zaghouanists Anticipate Complete Victory and Early Resignation of Zivari Pasha Government.

By the Associated Press.

CAIRO, Egypt, May 24.—The general elections Saturday passed peacefully, except at Abutib, upper Egypt, where a man was killed and seven men were injured, and at Smanad, lower Egypt, where 44 persons were injured in election riots.

Complete returns will not be made public until Tuesday. It is known, however, that coalition candidates, representing the Zaghouanists and Liberal Constitutionalists, had great success. The Zaghouanists anticipate a complete victory and the consequent early resignation of the Government of Zivari Pasha.

Results up to late Sunday night, including those in districts where candidates were elected unopposed, showed the election of 88 Zaghouanists, 19 Liberals, five Independents, three Nationalists and one Ite hadist.

LAREDO, Tex., May 24.—An American mining man, C. C. Braden, and Gallagher, a mining engineer, have been captured by Mexican bandits and are held for ransom. Mrs. Braden was notified yesterday.

American Consul Yost at Torreon, Mexico, wired Mrs. Braden that her husband was being held at Dosbuidrora, Durango, for $600 pesos (about $3000) ransom. Yost said troops had been ordered to pursue the bandits. Another telegram from Dr. H. Lawrence of Mapim, Durango, states that Braden and Gallagher were captured at a mine last Tuesday.

Braden owns the Texano mine at Dosbuidrora.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 24.—G. M. Dyott, explorer and flyer, today described his plans for following the trail of Theodore Roosevelt through the South American jungles. Dyott has the support of the Roosevelt Memorial Association, which is eager to obtain a film record of scenes through which the ex-President passed on his trip in 1914. In a wreck on one of the rapids, Roosevelt lost most of his pictures.

Dyott's expedition will carry wireless equipment. A powerful set will be rigged up on the plateau near the headwaters of the River of Deva, and a radio operator will be stationed there. Dyott will take a smaller set, operated by a gasoline engine, for use on the actual descent of the River of Doubt, or Rio Theodore, as the Brazilian Government named it.

The demonstration, for which thousands of persons came to the capital from many parts of the country, appeared to have attained its object, which was to impress Berliners with the size and orderliness of the communist movement, for early tonight the police reported that the demonstration was without incident and that the "red riots" predicted in some quarters did not develop.

A large force of police, mounted and afoot, reinforced by Leichtwehr, guarded the procession.

REED DOMINANT FIGURE IN SENATE,
ECLIPSING BORAH; COLLEAGUES LISTEN
TO HIM IN FEAR OF TONGUE-LASHING

Missourian's Audacity in Forcing Senate to Investigate Campaign Funds His Latest Triumph.

By CHARLES G. ROSS
Chief Washington Correspondent
of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Jim Reed is running away with the show in the Senate.

Not so many years ago the beginning of a speech by the Missouri Senator was the signal for many in the press gallery to say, "It's just Jim Reed again," and to walk out. They don't do that now.

When the word goes about the Capitol that Reed is making a speech, reporters flock into the gallery. Congressmen come over from the other end of the building, and even Senators who have been taking their ease in the cloakrooms—not all, but some—enter the chamber to listen.

Senators, as a rule, don't like to listen to one another. To say that Reed can bring in even some of them from the cloakrooms is to pay the greatest possible tribute to his power.

Reed Ascendant Over Borah.

Reed is the dominant figure in this session of the Senate. His rise to power has been accompanied by a marked shrinkage in the prestige of Borah. Last session, a candid estimate of the influence of the two men would have placed Borah ahead of Reed. This session there is no question that Borah has been eclipsed by the Missouri Senator.

Reed is riding on top of the world.

Leader in Three Causes.

In the discussion of each of the three great issues that have arisen in the Senate this session Reed has easily been the outstanding figure. This is true despite the fact that in each case he is on the losing side. He lost magnificently. He lost in the World Court fight, but in so doing he filled the administration with a fear from which it has not yet recovered. In that contest he took the leadership of the minority cause completely away from the nominal leader, Borah.

He has reached, in short, the very fullness of his powers.

His recent speech on the Italian debt settlement, in which he lashed without mercy his colleagues of both parties, was the best, if it was not the one best, of his career.

Reed is riding on top of the world.

Committee Ideal for Purpose.

For the purpose in hand, the committee is ideal. Reed, being author of the bill creating it, and the first man named by the Vice President, is, of course, slated for the chairmanship. What Reed can do in the special field of slush sentences, and in bluntness, seasoned with homely metaphors; an orator now coldly matter-of-fact, now silk in his suavity, now fiercely accusing.

He has reached, in short, the very fullness of his powers. His recent speech on the Italian debt settlement, in which he lashed without mercy his colleagues of both parties, was the best, if it was not the one best, of his career.

Politics Bars County Progress.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

R EPLYING to "County Resident" who writes on the lack of means for the collection of garbage in St. Louis County. The situation you complain of is exactly what the people of St. Louis County deserve for resting in supine acquiescence while their very suffrage is being stolen from them.

You voted and passed a measure nearly two years ago, that in the minds of 95 per cent of those voting for it, would result in a proposition of merger with the city of St. Louis being submitted to you at the coming fall election.

When the time came for the appointment of the County Freeholders, petitioners representing large numbers of St. Louis County voters were presented to your elected public officials. Your servants paid by you utterly ignored your petitioners and permitted themselves to be the "mumkinines" of the notorious political boss of St. Louis County, and they appointed only men who would oppose in every possible way your clearly expressed wishes.

The garbage question, the water question, the school question and the sewer question, to say nothing of police, fire protection and all other municipal activities can only be obtained for St. Louis County by a merger with the City of St. Louis. The proposed manner of settling the sewer question with the Ralph Bill is the capital joke upon St. Louis Countians, even up-State legislators have been heard to remark that they voted for the Ralph Bill to punish St. Louis County. This Ralph Bill, if any sewerage is ever done under it will prove to be one of the most vicious pieces of legislation ever enacted for the county. That, too, if it comes to pass will serve the people right, so long as they submit and leave their public affairs for others to look after, taking no interest they can expect office seekers to be defeating their wishes and their interests.

If you want to progress get busy in the interest of the merger, communicate with the undersigned.

JOSEPH FORSHAW.

Treatment of Mentally Defective Criminals.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I WISH to express my satisfaction over your editorial on the William Kaufman case.

With all that has been written and spoken about the uselessness of penal institution punishment of individuals of the type of Kaufman, very little actual comprehension by the average jury is shown.

It would be well if more of the life history of such persons was familiar to those in whose hands rests the protection of society. Sending Kaufman to prison the first time obviously did not change his tendencies in the least—and we may predict that it will not this time. When he has served his term he will be returned to the community with the same tendencies. He will be without supervision and nothing will have been done except to "punish him."

It is fairly clear that such persons can be diagnosed by trained physicians. It is quite well known that crimes such as they commit—arson in one case, rape in another, perhaps murder in a third—are symptoms of a disordered brain.

We make no claim that all crime is insanity. But we know many of the type of Kaufman who have spent their lives since childhood committing crimes and misdemeanors and serving time for them. If society desires protection from their destructive trends it must by examination identify them and then provide either asylum detention or responsible supervision. It is doubtful that any considerable percentage can be cured but at least they can be kept where they may not injure the property and persons of the community.

M. A. BLISS.

Specialized Films.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

T HE system of padding feature pictures to a prescribed footage is evidently a very stupid process. The tear old public has rebelled at this short-weighting in the merchandise, if we are to believe a no less important personage than E. F. Schuberg, associate Paramount producer. In a recent Associated Press dispatch Mr. Schuberg is quoted as follows:

"THE OVERSHADOWING ISSUE."

David M. Proctor of Kansas City opened his campaign for the Republican nomination for United States Senator at Carthage Saturday night as an unqualified dry. Prohibition, he declared, is the overshadowing issue. He served notice that he would permit none of his opponents to pussyfoot on this issue.

He himself appeals to the dry vote in the following words, as reported in the Sunday Post-Dispatch:

If elected to the Senate I will not vote for any legislation that will whittle away, weaken or undermine the eighteenth amendment, or any other amendment or article of the Constitution.

That pledge will be entirely satisfactory to all prohibitionists who have never taken the trouble to read the Constitution of the United States and who are, therefore, unfamiliar with its contents and who are also unaware of the serious inroads that have been made on our organic law under the whip and spur of prohibition's powerful lobby.

To the Wheelers, the Diodwiddes and others of the prohibition lobby Mr. Proctor's promise will not be satisfactory. For no member of Congress, either Senate or House, can be faithful to prohibition, as the prohibition lobby construes faithfulness, and at the same time remain true to the Constitution.

As a lawyer, Mr. Proctor knows that statement is the simple truth. He knows that, in the name of the eighteenth amendment, other amendments and articles in the Constitution have been "whittled away, weakened and undermined."

The fourth amendment, for example, reads:

The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no warrants shall issue but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the persons or things to be seized.

Mr. Proctor pledges himself to vote for no legislation that will whittle away, weaken or undermine that amendment. If he is sincere in that pledge—and we intimate nothing to the contrary—he knows that as a United States Senator he could not have met the requirements of the prohibition lobby in the past and could not meet them today. By the terms of that pledge he could not vote to grant the powers which Gen. Andrews, as chief Federal enforcement officer, has asked of the present Congress.

Consider the fifth amendment:

No person shall be held to answer for a capital or other infamous crime unless on a presentment or indictment of a grand jury * * * nor shall any person be subject for the same offense to be twice put in jeopardy of life and limb. *

Will Mr. Proctor as a lawyer say that that amendment is intact today? Will he deny that, at the best of prohibition, it has been assailed both in spirit and letter?

Read the sixth amendment:

In all criminal prosecutions the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and impartial trial, by an impartial jury of the State and district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which districts shall have been previously determined, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory processes for obtaining witnesses in his favor and to have the assistance of counsel for his defense.

Mr. Proctor knows that that amendment, in some of its essentials, has been nullified by prohibition. Article X is a short sentence, but fundamentally it is, perhaps, the most pregnant constitutional declaration. It reads:

The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the states, are reserved to the states respectively, or to the people.

There is the most wantonly violated guarantee in the covenant. The Federal Government, under the evil guidance of greed for power, has squirmed around this popular bulwark, lied through it, bored holes in it with every manner of casuistry, expediency, speciousness and solemn hypocrisy, and by so doing has at length created a Frankenstein of bureaucracy which threatens to devour our representative Government. But we know of no adventure in centralization so utterly subversive of the sovereignty of the states as prohibition.

Would Mr. Proctor, as a member of the Federal Senate, endorse or repudiate the latest attempt at executive usurpation and disregard for the last article in the bill of rights as exhibited in Mr. Coolidge's cue?

It is fairly clear that such persons can be diagnosed by trained physicians. It is quite well known that crimes such as they commit—arson in one case, rape in another, perhaps murder in a third—are symptoms of a disordered brain.

We make no claim that all crime is insanity. But we know many of the type of Kaufman who have spent their lives since childhood committing crimes and misdemeanors and serving time for them. If society desires protection from their destructive trends it must by examination identify them and then provide either asylum detention or responsible supervision. It is doubtful that any considerable percentage can be cured but at least they can be kept where they may not injure the property and persons of the community.

I WISH to express my satisfaction over your editorial on the William Kaufman case.

With all that has been written and spoken about the uselessness of penal institution punishment of individuals of the type of Kaufman, very little actual comprehension by the average jury is shown.

It would be well if more of the life history of such persons was familiar to those in whose hands rests the protection of society. Sending Kaufman to prison the first time obviously did not change his tendencies in the least—and we may predict that it will not this time.

When he has served his term he will be returned to the community with the same tendencies. He will be without supervision and nothing will have been done except to "punish him."

ARTISTS' GUILD REVEL IN VALE OF KASHMIR'

Maharajah George S. Johns of Craghdarrah Presides Over Scene of Splendor.

A magic carpet transported the Artists' Guild members on their annual outing Saturday across the sands of Arab, through fabled lands far into the valleys of the mystic India. A huge sign pointing down the Robyn road, just off Jenny, south of Kirkwood, said "To the Vale of Kashmir."

Below in a valley was a grassy amphitheater surrounded with forest. Over the greensward were scattered high-hung Oriental canopies and at the far end, a bizarre and gorgous throne. A carpet of barbary design stretched from the foot of the dais, and at the four corners stood bamboo poles with long festoons of Oriental banners. Great witches' cauldrons swung from tripods, their contents bubbling over smouldering wood fires. No sign of life.

A Gorgeous Scene Unfolds.

Then the tinkle of a woman's laugh, a man's halloo and answering call, and the scene seemed suddenly enveloped with an advancing multitude—representatives of all the tribes of the Far East, Arabic, Persian, Indian, Tatar, Kashmire, Tibetan, Japanese and Chinese—two hundred of them, in dazzling costumes, in shining gold and silver and the sheen of parti-colored silks and satins. Naute girls slipped hand in hand with rajahs. Veiled darlings of the harem flirted with khaki-clad and turban-crowned officers of the Hill country. Even the stern and mighty chamberlain of the Maharajah was surrounded by clinging hours.

The great moment arrived. Mounted heralds swept through the forest. The Nazir, Chamberlain of the Harem, in gorgeous trappings, bellowed the approach of his All-Pervading Mightiness, the Maharajah of Craghdarrah. This potentate, his fierce, bewhiskered countenance surmounted by a magnificently headdressed and his gorgeous royal smile hung heavy with costly jewels, was accompanied by his Maharanee and a number of the favorites of the harem, as well as four of his rajahs. Weird string music of the East guided the stately procession.

Pageant of the Beauties. Safely seated on the throne, the Maharajah ordered the Chamberlain to proclaim his mandates. He first demanded that all the fair beauties gathered from Eastern realms, should pass before him that he might select the most enchanting and bestow on her his royal smile. Eighty-odd contestants danced and postured and made obeisance before him. The Maharajah offered to accept them all. This decision being protested, his mightiness placed the burden of choice on his four rajahs.

The fair victor was announced as W. D. Hammond, and upon his ankle, as is the Far Eastern custom, was placed an amulet of pearls by Maharajah George S. Johns of the Estate Craghdarrah, on which this colorful ceremonial was staged. The four rajahs were Clark McAdams, Dr. Otto Heller, William Hall and Thomas W. Frey.

The Chamberlain was Roy James, cartoonist, and one of the scimitar-bearers was C. K. Gleason, the painter. Mrs. Lawrence was the dispenser of justice.

In the case of a named Rutherford, commendation of the fine of $500 for the hotel.

MISS ELEANOR LUEDINGHAUS.

MISS ELEANOR LUEDINGHAUS and her mother, Mrs. Lucia A. Luedinghaus of 6675 Washington boulevard, will depart tomorrow to sail from New York for a six months' stay in Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Scott Porter of the Forest Park Hotel, and their daughter, Miss Jane Porter, will sail in ten days on a French liner from New York for Europe to spend the summer. They will return home in September, landing in Quebec. Miss Porter is a student at Mary Institute.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Russell Akin of 3 University lane are spending a few days in New York and are interested at the Ambassador Hotel.

A cablegram from Mr. and Mrs. Con P. Curran to St. Louis relatives announced their safe arrival in Ploesci near Bucharest, Rumania, at the end of a 500-mile journey to visit Mr. Curran's daughter, Mrs. William H. Gross, who has been seriously ill. The cable also announces her convalescence.

Mr. and Mrs. Gross have been living in Ploesci since their marriage in St. Louis in July, 1924. Mrs. Gross was Miss June Curran.

Mrs. Charles E. Lane of 4915 Lindell boulevard and her mother, Mrs. Charles Denison, will return this week from San Antonio, Tex., where they have been visiting for a fortnight.

Captures Filling Station Robber.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PEORIA, Ill., May 24.—J. H. Tankersley, in charge of a gasoline filling station, last night meekly complied with every request that a robber made when he pointed a revolver at him and ordered him to open the safe and turn over all cash. When the robber was ready to leave the place, Tankersley noticed the pistol hand shaking nervously. In a struggle, he disarmed the robber. The prisoner told police it was his second "job." He gave his name as Lee Hayden of Pearl, Ill.

Mussolini Welcomed At Genoa Celebration

Dictator Emphasizes Importance of Shipping at Meeting of Sailors' Congress.

By the Associated Press.
GENOA, Italy, May 24.—This medieval seaport welcomed Mussolini with a maritime display recalling the festive occasions of the Middle Ages, when as mistress of the Mediterranean it honored victorious Genoese captains.

The Premier, who arrived early yesterday morning aboard the steamer Esperia, to participate in the celebration today of the eleventh anniversary of Italy's entry into the World War, was given a series of great popular ovations. He insisted, however, on transforming the outpouring of enthusiasm into a glorification of the work of the sailors, in which he declared Italy placed much of its faith for the nation's future greatness.

Fascist Italy, Mussolini told a sailors' congress, at which 50,000 sailors were represented, needs the work of its seafaring folks to fulfill its determined ambition to become a great nation. It will safeguard their legitimate interests and rights, he declared, provided they maintain the order and discipline required by the ideals of Fascism which continue to rule Italy "because it is my will and that of millions of Italians."

At the municipal palace Mussolini presided at a ceremony inaugurating a new municipal flag. The Mayor in his speech exalted the mother country, saying that today would mark an historic date for Genoa, one from which a new history of Genoa would start, consisting of greatness and power on the seas.

Answering, the Premier de-

"I thank you for your vibrant, courteous greeting. You told the truth when you affirmed that Genoa has been and is now, and, I hope I can add, shall always be, dear to my heart. I consider Genoa as one of the cities representing the highest hopes of a country which is great on the seas. I am sure the flag we are inaugurating today will see only times of power, virtue and glory."

AMNESIA VICTIM IDENTIFIED Mrs. Charlotte Link, 47, Detained at City Hospital.

The well-dressed woman, who was found at Jefferson and Allen avenues Saturday night, suffering from lapse of memory, was identified yesterday at City Hospital as Mrs. Charlotte Link, 47 years old, of 4567 Enright avenue. Identification was made by Dr. Mae Harris, 518 Pendleton avenue, who had treated her for nervousness.

Dr. Harris told hospital physicians that Mrs. Link suffered temporary lapse of memory about a year after divorcing her husband, observation.

NAVY AIRMEN START
MAP - MAKING TRIP

Destination Is Alaska and Work of Photographing Peninsula Will Last Four Years.

By the Associated Press.
SAN DIEGO, Cal., May 24.—Three amphibian planes, which will be employed by the Navy's expeditionary force in air mapping America's last frontier, hopped off from here early today for Ketchikan, Alaska. The larger part of the group of picked naval aviators, photographers and mechanics that make up the expedition left here Saturday night on the aircraft tender Gannet, which has been assigned as station ship for the Alaskan party.

The three amphibian planes, together with one that will join the expedition in Sand Point, Washington, will be employed this summer in photographing about 40,000 square miles of Alaskan peninsula. The pictures, with ones to be taken by the territory in the next four years, will be sent to the Navy Department to be assembled into a mosaic map of Alaska, which will include the Government's natural oil reserves in the vicinity of Point Barrow.

COUPLE CELEBRATES 70
YEARS OF MARRIED LIFE

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Maxwell Observe Anniversary Quietly at the Masonic Home.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Maxwell celebrated the seventieth anniversary of their marriage yesterday in a quiet way at the Masonic Home of Missouri, at 5357 Delmar boulevard.

Maxwell is 91 years old, and his wife, Hester, is 86. They were married in 1856 in Osage County, Mo., where they spent the greater part of their life on a farm, rearing a family of eight children. They have lived at the Masonic home for 15 years. Two of their children are living, Miss Belle Maxwell and Mrs. Lucinda Bache, both of whom live in Saline County.

HED the call of the Northland. The call of mountain, river, and lake. Fragrant orchards, and golden wheat fields. See the "shadowy St. Joe". Fish, hunt, hike, golf. The climate of this wonderful country will give you new vitality.

See Spokane

It is named for the Spokane Tribes, or Sons of the Sun, and lives up to that name. The Inland Empire rimmed in by mountains, knows no extremes. It is a land of sunshine.

An unusual city of beauty and adornment. The turbulent falls of the Spokane River in its very midst. More parks in proportion to population than any other city in the U.S.

A progressive city of prosperous industry, and wonderful schools, surrounded by a network of splendid highways.

Here is located one of the finest, most unique and most individual hotels in the world—The Davenport—pictured above.

AIR TRIP, NEW YORK TO BUENOS AIRES, STARTS

Three Men Makmg 6100-Mile Journey in Flying Boat—14 Days for Trip.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 24.—Bernardino Duggan, wealthy Argentine sportsman, and two companions hopped off in a flying boat from Miller Field on Staten Island at 7:04 a.m., Eastern standard time, today for Charleston, S. C. on the first leg of a 6100-mile flight to Buenos Aires.

Capt. Eduardo Olivero, one of Senor Duggan's companions, an Argentinian who settled in Argentina when it was under Spanish rule. He once was champion automobile racer of Argentina and turned to aviation after his closest friend was killed on a speedway. He is 24, resembles Georges Carpenter and is a ranch owner.

"The Buenos Aires" was built in Italy for Senor Duggan. It is fitted with special bulkheads to insure riding out moderately heavy seas. It carries 250 gallons of gasoline, enough to fly 700 miles, and sustain flight for nine hours.

Capt. Olivero said yesterday the flight is not sponsored by the Argentine Government, but is being attempted purely for sport. The United States Government, however, has assured the Argentine Government that the aviators can count on help from the army and navy air service in the United States and Cuba.

Gasoline, enough to fly 700 miles, and sustain flight for nine hours.

Capt. Olivero said yesterday the flight is not sponsored by the Argentine Government, but is being attempted purely for sport. REPORT FROWNS ON PRE-EMINENCE ACCORDED SPORTS BY COLLEGE.
By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 24.—Dr. Harry S. Pritchett, president of the Carnegie Foundation for the advancement of teaching, said in the twentieth annual report of the institution yesterday that athletics can be made an important force in American education, "not only by continuing their commercialism, but by permitting them longer to retain pre-eminence in our distorted scale of academic values."

"Athletic sports and games will never be discarded," Dr. Pritchett's report continued, "and he would lack judgment who advocated that they should be, but their undesirable elements can be diminished."

"Some form of financial support is required, sufficient to make resort to the methods of the showman and the professional sport promoter unnecessary."

Dr. Pritchett urged the adaptation of the competitive spirit shown in athletics to education itself.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 24.—Led by the fleet Roland Locke as he raced to set a new and equal another world record sons of the Middle West carried off the laurels in competitions of collegiate track and field athletes in various parts of the United States Saturday.

In six of the events held alike at games on the Atlantic seaboard and in the Midwest, the better performances were in the Missouri Valley championships at the University of Nebraska. Three of the best records of the day were hung up in the Harvard-Yale dual meet at Cambridge, and four others, one of which equaled the performance at Cambridge, were made at the Princeton-California dual meet at Princeton.

Additionally, the best high hurdles time of the day and the mightiest hammer throw were made in the Michigan-Illinois dual Big Ten meet at Ann Arbor, giving the Midwes other comparative victories.

Locke Star of the Day.

Locke was the outstanding performer of the day. Finally evading the wind which had been incident to his recent record-breaking efforts, he sped 220 yards at Nebraska, in :20.7, as recorded by a battery of official watches, clipping a tenth of a second off the world time of :20.8, previously held by Charlie Paddock.

The game was marred by a weird display of refereeing by Referee Lamb, who by his poor judgment deprived Bethlehem of at least two scores, and who also failed to detect a case of "hands" against the Beths. In the last few minutes of play, the referee, who had handled the ball just prior to the goal being scored and the goal was disallowed.

MARATHON RUNNERS TO FOLLOW ROUTE TRODBY WASHINGTON'S MEN

PHILADELPHIA, May 24.—A marathon team race is to be a feature of the Shriners' convention here next week.

The entry list, announced today, includes 67 of the country's leading long-distance runners.

Starting at Valley Forge and finishing at the Municipal Stadium, the race will cover the course over which the Continental soldiers made their march to winter quarters. To close the race over the marathon distance of 26 miles 385 yards, the contestants will run three-quarters of a mile around the track at the stadium.

There will be three runners to each team and the scores will be computed on the basis of one point for first place, two for second and three for third.

Youngest Member of American Walker Cup Team
Shoots First Nine in 33
and Beats Guild, 3-2.

By the Associated Press.
MURFIELD, Scotland, May 24.—Yester brought home the first American victory in the British Amateur Golf Championship Tournament which opened here today.

Roland Mackenzie of Washington, D. C., youngest player on the American Walker Cup team, overcame his Scottish opponent, W. J. Gould of Murrayfield in the first nine holes of their match, and then played good enough golf, despite two bad holes on the homeward route, to win, 3 and 2.

Guild had the reputation of being one of the deadliest putters in Scotland, but he had few opportunities to display his talent up to the ninth hole, the young American having him 3 down at the turn.

Three Under 4s for First 9.

Mackenzie was three under fours at the ninth. His screaming wood shot time after time brought bursts of applause from the gallery which followed the only American Walker Cup team member to compete in the morning.

The cards:

Capt. A. Ulmer, in. 5 4 4 3 4 4—28

Capt. Robert A. Gardner of the American team was the first to grasp Mackenzie's hand after the latter's victory. "The first of my marks is safe in the fold," said Capt. Gardner.

Mackenzie was so interested in his first championship competition in Great Britain that he did not stop for breakfast, but once he was on the links he played a steadily as any of the grizzled Scottish veterans who followed his outward play with amazement. Exclamations of approval and wonderment were numerous as the young player sent mighty drivers 40, 50 and even 60 yards beyond Guild's.

Five Americans Lose.

The morning's play saw five Americans eliminated from the championship. They were Everett Books of the Glen Echo Country Club, Normandy, Mo.; W. C. Fowles of Pittsburgh; Alfred C. Ulmer of Jacksonville, Fla.; and two Florida players, Spratt and O'Brien. The first two scratched. Short puts cost Ulmer heavily in his struggle against the former champion Wethered. He failed to sink two-footers on the second and fourth greens.

The American made a fine uphill fight on the last nine, but succumbed when the last hole was added. Starting the homeward journey 3 down, Ulmer halved the ninth, eleventh and twelfth, and then took the thirteenth with a by holing a 10-yard putt. He next, Wethered's hooked drive to the rough gave the American the seventeenth, but the Englishman won by one up when they halved the eighteenth in pars.

The cards:

Guilford Wins Easily.

Jesse Guilford of Boston defeated J. Birnie, 7 and 6.

Dr. W. W. Rixey of Princeton, N. J., was put out by Mr. Harkland, 6 and 5.

A. R. Mackenzie, father of Roland, was eliminated by Mr. Dobson, 6 and 5.

George Von Elm, the United States star, defeated Russell Boyck of Baberton, 4 and 3.

Cyril Tolley Eliminated.

The biggest upset of the opening day's play came this afternoon, when Cyril Tolley, former champion, who had been picked by the British to regain the crown, was defeated, 4 and 2, by A. R. Hallinan, captain of the 1924 Oxford team.

Francis Ouimet also came through the first round successfully.

Summaries of the Americans' Matches

Roland Mackenzie defeated W. J. Guild, 3 and 2.

Francis Ouimet defeated Frank Williamson, 7 and 6.

Jesse Guilford defeated J. Birnie, 7 and 6.

James Cowan defeated W. C. Fowles, 4 and 3.

Everett Brooks, Glen Echo, St. Louis, lost to Sam Robinson, 7 and 5.

Roger Wethered eliminated Alfred C. Ulmer, 1 up.

Dr. W. W. Rixey lost to Shankland, 6 and 5.

A. R. Mackenzie lost to Dobson, 6 and 5.

Spratt and O'Brien, two Florida players, scratched.

Jess Sweetser, Bobby Jones, Roger Gardner, Watts Gunn and Chick Evans did not play.

by defeating Frank Williamson of Carlyle, 7 and 6.

W. C. Fowles of Pittsburgh was defeated by James Cowen of Edinburgh, 4 and 3.

St. Louis Defeated.

Everett Brooks of the Glen Echo Country Club, St. Louis, Mo., the first American to start, was defeated by Sam Robinson, 7 up and 5 to 1.

Guild had the reputation of being one of the deadliest putters in Scotland, but he had few opportunities to display his talent up to the ninth hole, the young American having him 3 down at the turn.

Alfred C. Ulmer of Jacksonville, Fla., was defeated by Roger Wethered, former British amateur champion, who finished one up.

A big upset occurred when McCullum of Troon, Scotland, defeated Map. C. O. Hezlet, 4 and 3. Mal Hezlet has been considered a certainty for the British Walker Cup team.

Americans Draw.

Bobby Jones, Robert A. Gardner of Chicago and Watts Gunn of Atlanta are not to start until tomorrow morning.

Chick Evans' bottom bye gives him extra rest and practice until Wednesday morning, when he meets J. B. Beck, a young Londoner, who has been playing exceptionally well.

Sixteen Americans were in the matches scheduled for today, but the British player, Humphreys, who was to have opposed Sweetser, scratched, thus advancing Sweetser to the second round and giving him another day to recover from his injury.

Donald Woodward of Washington defeated Stanley Lunt, 2 and 1.

Robert Harris, the present British amateur champion, defeated T. A. Torrance of Sandy Lodge, 3 and 2.

The innovation of charging admission to the matches apparently affected the attendance, and only about 1,000 persons paid their half crown to see the first round. A few spectators managed to scale the high stone wall surrounding the course and witnessed the play from that point of vantage. A few others managed to get free seats on the sand dunes skirting the sea.

Officials, however, say that if a Scotchman should be the finalist against an American on Saturday all Edinburgh will turn out.

Four Americans Lose.

The morning's play saw five Americans eliminated from the championship. They were Everett Books of the Glen Echo Country Club, Normandy, Mo.; W. C. Fowles of Pittsburgh; Alfred C. Ulmer of Jacksonville, Fla.; and two Florida players, Spratt and O'Brien.

Cards Open Series With Reds Today

Keen Likely Candidate for Pitching Job in First Game.

By J. ROY STOCKTON.

Rhem and Keen cannot pitch the Cardinals to a pennant. They have scored 13 victories between them, but still Hornsby's men are below the .500 mark and seven games behind the league Cincinnati Reds. Nor is it possible for Rhem, Keen and Sherdell to pitch the team to the flag. Rhem and Keen can work frequently, but Sherdell is not so strong, and he needs four or five days' rest between games.

Therefore, it is essential that Manager Hornsby find, develop, or purchase one or two more winning pitchers. Rhem has won seven. Keen has grabbed six and Sherdell has three victories to his credit. If Hornsby had wanted to ignore the necessity of having a full pitching staff he might have won yesterday's game. Keen undoubtedly could have turned the final with the Phils into his seventh triumph. But Hornsby wisely is trying to develop another pitcher and he tried Huntzinger and Reinhart, with Dyer and H. Bell finishing.

BIG HEARTED BOYS.

Thus far the fourth and fifth members of the staff, winning members, have not been found. Huntzinger and Reinhart suffered enlargement of the heart and tried to give the park to the Phils. They didn't quite get away with that, but they did succeed in handing the game to the seventh-place Fletchermen.

Huntzinger started and issued two basers on balls. Both were turned into runs. Reinhart came to Walter's rescue with two down in the second inning and the Phils leading, 4 to 1, and two out. The southpaw checked that particular rally, but in the fifth he too, became generous and walked two men, both of them scoring, and in the sixth he handed out two more passes and one of them was turned into a run.

Thus five or six bases on balls issued by the two pitchers became Philadelphia runs. Had it been for those passes the Cardinals probably would have scored their fourth straight victory of the series and would have beaten the one pitcher on Art Fletcher's staff—Harold Carlson. But those five runs that developed from passes and two more that were produced by home-run wallop enabled the Phils to close the five-game series with a 7 to 5 victory. The Phils won two of the five games and Carlson was the winning pitcher each time.

TWO "OMERS OUT HUNTZINGER.

Leach hit a homer in the first inning and in the second, with two out. Wilson also hit for the circuit. Then Wrightstone and Carlson walked. Sand singled and Mokan singled.

In the fifth, with Reinhart pitching, Mokan walked. Leach scored. Nixon walked and both scored when Bentler tripled to right. In the sixth Wilson walked. Frithy flied out. Carlson walked. Sand fouled out and Mokan singled, scoring Wilson.

The Cards scored one in the first when Douthit singled and was forced by Hornsby to left, scoring Rogers. In the third Blades singled. Douthit sacrificed and Hornsby singled, scoring Blades.

FLOWERS HITS ONE IN PINCH.

That was all until the seventh, when Flowers batted for Reinhart and hit into the left-field bleach and for a Homer. In the eighth Bottomley singled. Mueller tripled and Helme scored on Toporcer's sacrifice fly.

Hornsby's men got nine hits off Carlson, while the Phils totaled 10 of the three Cardinal throwers. But those bases on balls were fatal.

Vic Keen is due to win his seventh game this afternoon in the first of three contests with the high-flying Reds. However, Sylvester Johnson is a candidate for one of the openings on the pitching staff and he may get a chance against the league leaders today. He has pitched good ball, but has been unfortunate.

STURDY OF TULSA KEEPS PACE WITH BABE RUTH.

TULSA, Ok., May 24.—The slugging tendencies which have been noticeable among Western League players since the opening of the season during the past week developed into widespread ability to crash out home runs, with Sturdy of Tulsa leading the way.

By coincidence, Sturdy drove out his fourteenth circuit drive on the day when Babe Ruth made his fourteenth at New York and the records show them both hitting at a .333 clip. The Tulsa slugger did not take such a commanding lead, however, Blakesley and Meyers of Omaha running up their total of homers to 10 each. Numerous others drove out long ones to total six, five and four for the season to date.

All-around hitting carried Casey of Tulsa, through the previous leaders and established him at the top of the individual averages with .427. Brickell of Wichita experienced a sudden drop in his percentage to take third place.

Tulsa's hitting was good as a team, the efforts of Sturdy, Casey and others putting the club at the head of the column with a percentage of .316. Oklahoma City dropped quite a bit to take second with .299. Omaha ranking next with .298. Omaha ranking next with .298.

OVERSEAS TRADE RECOVERING

December, 1925, Total Exceeded

Only Once in 5 Years.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, May 24.—Notwithstanding that total tonnage volume was less during 1925 than in 1923 and 1924, American overseas dry cargo trade at the end of the five-year period ended Dec. 31, 1925, was more favorable than at any other time during that period, the bureau of research of the Shipping Board announced today.

'Overseas dry cargo trade' refers to ocean traffic of general cargo vessels with Europe, Asia, Africa, Australia and South America as distinguished from trade with Canada and countries contiguous to the Caribbean Sea, and shipments of oil in tankers. The overseas dry cargo trade being generally regarded as the real measure of American activity in ocean commerce, the bureau pointed out, the apparently unfavorable turn in the country's ocean commerce, dwindle in importance when it is noted that American dry cargo trade in December, 1925, exceeded only once during the five years, that being due to abnormal conditions in September, 1922, when unusually large coal shipments resulted from the coal strike.

MAN SLAIN BY DRY AGENTS

Kentuckian Attempted to Aid One of Prisoners in Raid.

By the Associated Press. PIKEVILLE, Ky., May 24.—Attempting to rescue a friend from a band of prohibition raiders, Butler Adams was killed in a restaurant at Marrowbone, near here, after he wounded one of the officers, Lewis Casebolt.

The eight members of the raiding party took three prisoners into the restaurant after a series of raids near Marrowbone. One of them was Frank Phillips, Adams' friend. According to spectators, Adams drew his pistol when one of the deputies refused to let him take Phillips outside to talk to him, and shot Casebolt.

NEW WESTINGHOUSE PLANT

HERE TO BE OPENED SOON

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, May 24.—A building program involving the expenditure of $5,250,000 for new structures in seven localities was announced today by the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. Construction, part of which is already under way, includes buildings at the East Pittsburg plant, at Sharon and Derry, Pa., St. Louis, Mansfield, O., Detroit and East Springfield, Mass.

Operation of a concrete lighting standard factory erected here by the Westinghouse company, on a plot of land at Bingham and Olivia avenues, is expected to begin next week. The building cost about $300,000 and the equipment and land about $200,000 more. The structure measures 100x500 feet, having a high story, side mezzanine and overhead traveling crane. It has a steel frame, with walls of concrete.

Eventually, company officials expect other lines of manufacture will be added at the St. Louis plant and it will be expanded to represent an investment of more than $1,000,000.

The plant was started primarily to meet the needs of H. M. Breyer, a Chicago contractor who recently obtained the job of in-

Groups Show Heavy
Spots—Rally in French
Franc.

STOCK MARKET AVERAGES

Monday, May 24.—Total sales, 20 rail roads, 125,000 shares, compared with 118,000 shares, a year ago. Total sales from Jan. 1 to June 23, 175,559,700 shares, compared with 166,512,000 a year ago.

By Leslie Wile from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 23.—The Evening Post in its copyrighted financial review today says:

"High stock prices, a sharp rally in French francs, and narrow commodity movements featured today's financial markets. The volume of business was of moderate proportions. Strength in oil shares and in the main group of industrial stocks was instrumental in holding up average stock prices slightly. The rail road group was well supported. Some of the rubber shares were heavy, but selling pressure was not severe. Traction and the bond market, with the general list point to higher levels. Government securities and good rail bonds were in demand, while public utilities continued favored."

Call Money Rates Firm.

"Funds were reported plentiful in banking circles, but call money rates held at 4 percent on the Stock Exchange, though this was a non-commodity of 1 per cent from last week's final rate. An easier tone had been expected as a result of the excess in resources above $50,000,000 shown in last week's Clearing House statement. It apparently were preparing for end of the month settlements. Trading in stocks was only moderately active, but strong pressure was absent and in the main body of stocks the trend was toward slightly higher levels. Despite some early spots in the motors and rubber buying of oils and rail roads wanted to attain a new high record for the year while Pan-American issues improved and General Asphalt worked higher. Other independents were well supported in response to a further upward revision of gasoline prices. Traction stocks were buyable, and expectation of announcements of a new oil road franchise in New York. Interborough established a 1928 peak above 50, while Third Avenue and B. K. T. shares were slightly higher."

Commodities Irregular.

"Prices moved irregularly in the principal commodity markets. Wheat averaged higher in response to weather reports and a substantial decrease in the wheat supply. May contracts dropped fractionally, but July deliveries were higher. Corn declined slightly. Cotton took a downward course in quiet trading."

Rail Shares Steady.

"Although the volume of business in rail shares slackened, this group held up well. Delaware & Hudson worked forward, while Jordan came within a point of its record high of 140% reach last year. Both Jersey & Ulster established a new high for the year at 114 in response to a favorable supreme court decision. General Motors, Hudson, Jordan and some favorites lost some ground, but received support at lower levels and were firm in the afternoon. Yellow Truck and Coach dropped 2 points. Announcements were made of plans for an increase in stock. Specialties moved irregularly. American Woolen shares being weak and Remington Typewriter working higher. California Packing scored an advance, while Commercial Solvents issues eased off somewhat."

French Franc Sharply Higher.

"In spite of the general holiday in European markets, French francs recorded a sharp advance, rates of about 10 points and an advance of more than half a cent from last week's low level. The French Government was believed to be using credits here to help the exchange. Offerings were scarce. Belgian francs moved with French rates while Swiss and Dutch exchange was a trifle and sterling held within narrow limits. Italian exchange reacted sharply in response to reports of a settlement of the Riffian difficulties and a new high for the year was reached. Brazilian exchange was also firm."

CHAPTER I.

IT was not openly spoken of, but the family was waiting for Caleb Gare. Even Lind Archer, the new school teacher, who had come late that afternoon all the way from Yellow Post with the Indian mail carrier must therefore be hungry, was waiting. Amelia Gare, Caleb's wife, with all her cheerful bustling about the kitchen as if everything weren't quite ready, could not break the suspense. Judith and Charlie had milked several of the cows, and had come in and out of the house repeatedly for no reason whatever. Martin, slow and clumsy of feeling as he was, had cleaned the entire stable so thoroughly that it looked unnatural. Ellen, Martin's twin, was playing the organ, but appeared to have forgotten even the more familiar parts of her repertoire, such as Red Wing and the less recent Ben Bolt. Ellen played, harmoniously enough, "Bye car."

The teacher sat quietly in the low red plush rocker, listening to the springs of it exclaim as she rocked to and fro. She reflected, with some misgivings, on the non-committal opinions that had been expressed at Yellow Post the day before in reply to her delicately asked questions about the Gares. She remembered also, with increasing discomfort, the short, scornful grunt of John Tobacco, the mail carrier, when she had sought from him what manner of being she might expect in Caleb Gare. Now, the squeaking rocker kept her mind off her hunger. The rocker seemed to say, "Caleb! Caleb! Caleb!" It amused the teacher, rather wanly.

Presently the outer door swung open. Judith had come in again. Lind Archer saw her against the dim light of the lantern that hung by the kitchen door. She had a great, defiant body, her chest high and broad as a boy's; her hair was wild-looking and black and shone on top of her head with a bluish lustre; her eyes were in sullen repose now, long and narrow; her lips were rich and drooped at the corners. She wore overalls and a heavy sweater, and stood squarely on her feet, as if prepared to take or give a blow.

Judith approached Lind with a heavy, swinging stride. Lind thought she had never before seen such vigorous beauty.

"Are you hungry?" the girl asked abruptly.

"A little," Lind admitted.

Ellen's hands paused in mid-air over the organ keys. Her eyes held a reproach as she looked at Judith. But the younger girl, ignoring her sister, took a few long steps and disappeared into the pantry. She emerged with a plate on which were two slices of bread, well buttered, and a glass of milk.

Ellen's reproach grew. She stood up before the organ.

"Jude, you know father doesn't—"

"This won't spoil your supper any—if you're ever goin' to get it," said Jude to the teacher, breaking in upon Ellen's speech. Lind took the proffered food, too embarrassed to refuse it.

Ellen rose erectly and without a word walked into the kitchen. Lind felt that she was conferring in a whisper with her mother. The teacher nibbled uncomfortably at her bread and took a sip of the milk.

Jude, who had been wading a bit of twine about a stink, threw herself on the floor at Lind's feet.

"You might as well know that he'll try to bully you," she said matter-of-factly. "He's starting by keeping supper waiting. He always does the same thing when a new teacher comes. He expects you to be a man. All the teachers have been men. He's in for a jolt. But you stick up for yourself, Miss Archer. Don't you let him bully you."

"You might as well know that he'll try to bully you," she said matter-of-factly. "He's starting by keeping supper waiting. He always does the same thing when a new teacher comes. He expects you to be a man. All the teachers have been men. He's in for a jolt. But you stick up for yourself, Miss Archer. Don't you let him bully you."

began on another line. "He loves to ride around in the cart to show the Icelanders how much spare time he has during the busy season, while the rest of us slave around in the muck all day."

A feeling of apprehension was growing upon Lind. The high romance which had attended her setting out for this isolated spot in the north country was woefully deserting her. She had never before looked upon the naked image of hate. Here it was, in the eyes of a 17-year-old girl.

The light grating sound of wheels came from outside. Ellen returned to the organ stool, her face, for all its youth, bearing the hard serenity of a strong woman in a crisis. Lind wondered why.

"But I have no extra bed. The teacher will come," Mrs. Gare protested mildly.

The teacher—yes, of course—the teacher. Skuli stays the night," he announced finally to Amelia. His voice surprised Lind. It was remarkably soft, almost like a purr.

"But I have no extra bed. The teacher will come," Mrs. Gare protested mildly.

"Judith, you had better call Martin," Ellen said in a thin voice. "Father has come."

Judith got to her feet without a word.

In the kitchen Amelia hastily cleared the sink and placed in it a clean basin of hot water. She whipped the towel from its role and put a fresh one in its place. Untying her apron, she straightened her dress and combed her hair briskly back before the cracked mirror on the wall.

Then the door opened. At first, Caleb seemed to be a huge man. As he drew into the center of the kitchen, Lind could see that he was, if anything, below medium height, but that his tremendous shoulders and massive head, which loomed forward from the rest of his body like a rough projection of rock from the edge of a cliff, gave him a towering appearance. When attention was directed to the lower half of his body, he seemed visibly to dwindle. He had harsh gray hair that hung in pointed locks about his head, a weedy, tobacco-stained mustache, and startling black brows that straggled together across the bridge of a heavy, bony nose. His eyes were little beads of light that sought Lind out where she sat in the lamp glow of the other room. He did not speak until he had hung his coat and hat on a peg, and had washed himself at the sink.

Lind Archer finished her bread and butter in silence. There was a rare feeling in the air that no superficial remark could dispel.

Judith, apparently bent on tormenting her sister Ellen, whistled to her dog where he lay in the niche under the staircase. The dog looked up.

"Caleb!" she said sharply. The dog started, prickling up his ears.

Jude smiled maliciously toward Ellen, who moved about the kitchen as though she had not heard.

"You see—" said Judith, then en monosyllables which Lind could not distinguish. However, that Amelia addressed him with the same calm deference that had been in her attitude when Lind first met her in the barnyard that afternoon, upon her arrival with John Tobacco.

Caleb did not speak until he had finished washing. He did not so much as touch a comb to his ragged hair.

"Skuli will stay the night," he announced finally to Amelia. His voice surprised Lind. It was remarkably soft, almost like a purr.

"This is the other trustee of your school, Skuli Erickson," said Caleb, with an elaborate sweep of his hand toward the Icelander.

Lind gave Skuli her hand and he shook it heavily.

"There should be rights by three of us," Caleb went on in a wearied tone, as though he was giving permission and offering information that might as well be dispensed with, "but there ain't been another appointed since old Joe Morris died. Out here in this unorganized territory things go on much as the weather sees fit. And I don't know but what it ain't just as good with the two of us. Eh, Skuli?"

Skuli uttered a grunt which might have been an affirmation or a denial. He was slightly deaf, spoke very little English and understood little more.

In a few minutes they were all seated for supper. Lind between Ellen and Martin. Skuli directly at the other end of the long table from Caleb Gare.

"Looks like an early spring, eh, Skuli?" Caleb called to the Icelander.

Skuli nodded. "Ya," he agreed, helping himself well to potatoes and gravy.

There was a silence, during which the food was passed around the table. The children, all except Judith, sat with their eyes lowered to their plates, shame-facedly self-conscious in the unused presence of one so pretty and dainty as the new teacher.

"Much rain down your way lately?" Caleb asked Skuli, calling the length of the table. Amelia glanced with faint dismay from her husband to Lind.

"Naat muts," Skuli replied.

"Soon last week. Purty dry."

Throughout the meal Caleb exchanged observations with the

MUTT AND JEFF—THIS WAS TOO HOMELIKE FOR MUTT—By BUD FISHER

BOWING TO ORPHANT ANNIE.

A'ndt there was a feller, just a simple sort of goot, who went around a' brazzin' 'at his heart was bullet-proof.

He sang a little ditty called, "No Wedding Bell for Me!"

An' said at he was happy an' his heart was fancy free.

But, one day he was spotted by a lady passing by,

An' she had him roped an' brained in the twinkling of an eye,

An' she marched him to the altar 'fore he knew what she's about—

An' Peppy Joyell'll git you Ed you!

Oot!

TOO TRUE.

If the finish in the American League pennant race is close it looks like the team that gets the last crack at the Browns will win.

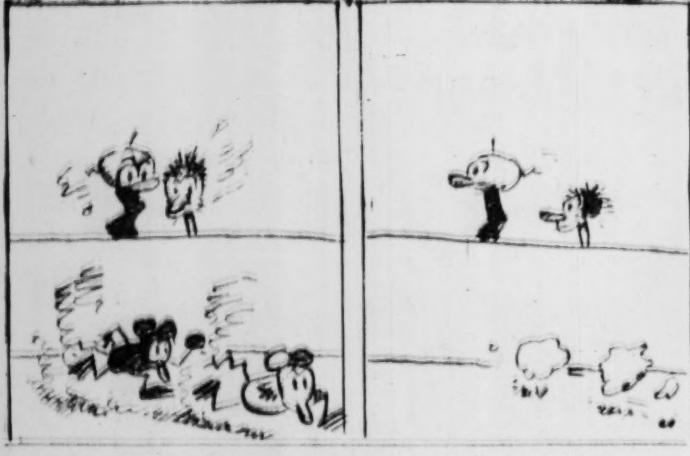

Charley Hoff, the Barnbow King, thinks he is being discriminated against by the A. A. U. Charley, many years have passed since the cow jumped over the moon, but her record hasn't been accepted by the A. A. U., as yet.

The man on the sandbox says Gorr, Pinchot, the famous pinch hitter, will also be relegated to the bench because of his failure to deliver the needed wallop in a pinch.

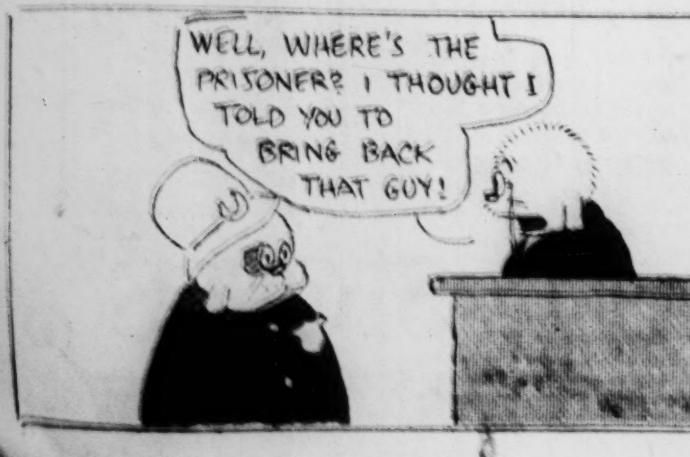

See where Pat Collins, starring in the role of the Browns "own petard," noise one over the fence on 'em the other day.

Pat need to do that little thing here whenever he got a chance, but he didn't get many chances.

GENTRY GOES AHEA
WITH CASE IN C

First Witnesses Called

ent Term, "Missing" I
Among Them.

The Missouri Supreme Court day denied Circuit Attorney Gentry's petition for a writ of protection to stop the grand jury under the direction of Attorney General Gentry into the settlement of the Rutherford murder case, payment of a $500 fine, and the general conduct of the Circuit Attorney's office.

No written opinion was given the court. The Justices concurring in the decision were Justice Blair and Judges Ragin, Walker and White. Judge Gentry dissented, and Judges Atwood and O'Brien were not present.

The court's decision means the inquiry, which was begun this morning's session of the grand jury, can go on without interference through the life of the grand jury, which continues next week. After that is the Attorney-General's purpose to carry on the inquiry through next or June, grand jury.

The order issued yesterday Circuit Judge Mix, under whom the inquiry is proceeding, which was based on Gov. Batson's order for an inquiry into the Rutherford case, called for an inquiry only into that case, but the Circuit Attorney's office generally.

Chief Justice Blair appeared in the building soon afterward, called a conference of the court for 10:15 a. m. The procedure, in such a case, would be for the Chief Justice to take up the matter himself, either to deny consideration, issue a preliminary rule, restraining action temporarily, and then call a session of the court to render a permanent order.

Judge Blair, it appeared, thought best to take either of the courses of action, in the present case, independently of the rest of the court, and therefore called his Justices into immediate conference.

It was recognized that, if a preliminary restraining order were issued, and the matter went over several days, Sidener would point to it as he was seeking to have the matter go over to next grand jury.

The Attorney-General and special assistant, Arthur V. Landwehr, began their work with the grand jury this morning, without waiting for the Supreme Court's ruling. The witnesses summoned for morning session, with one exception, were members of the press, one of the two preceding gurus.

The one person aside from present and former grand jury members who appeared was R. E. Steinhoff, one of the witnesses in the Rutherford case. Steinhoff is an employee of the Majestic Hotel, where the shooting of Jack Tully, a belliary, by Rutherford, occurred. He heard statements made by Tully after the shooting. Steinhoff was one of the witnesses whose case was settled, as "missed" he had since said he was not ready to testify.

Steinhoff was examined about half an hour. When asked if he were Craig Landwehr and Craig Landwehr, president of the Un
